Board Meets, Names Rector

The Mary Washington College Board of fistors met for the first time on Friday, July 8th, and elected Lewis M. Walker, Jr. of strisburg as the first rector. Long associated with the governance of Mary Washington as a camber of the University of Virginia Board of Juliors, Mr. Walker was elected for an initial of year term.

cws as vice rector, and Katherine Edmondson opper '29 of Fairfax as secretary.

Other members of the Board include Joseph Blackburn of Richmond; Richard S. Cross, afayette Hill, Pennsylvania; Gwendolyn Amory Cumming '52, Hampton; Donna Henninger Henderson '61, Troutville; Ann Louise Perinchief' 67, Fredericksburg; Samuel D. Proctor, New Brunswick, New Jersey; Joan Whitemore South '59, Hampton; Leah Fleet Waller '44, Richmond; and Ralph M. Whittiear III, of Fredericksburg.

This first meeting of the Board of Visitors of the College symbolically marks the beginning of a new era in the development of Mary Washington College. Separation of the College from the University of Virginia became official on July 1, 1972, when legislation enacted by the 1972 General Assembly became effective. Mary Washington was for 28 years the undergraduate College of Arts and Sciences for Women of the University. From its founding in 1908 until its affiliation with the University in 1944, it was primarily a teacher training institution.

In other organizational matters at its initial meeting, the Board approved the appointment of J. M. H. Willis Jr., commonwealth's attorney for the City of Fredericksburg and special counsel for the College, to additional duties as special counsel for the Board; and it named Mrs. Anne A. Moyse, secretary to College President Grellet C. Simpson, as clerk to the secretary of the Board.

The Board, in addition, passed several resolutions relating to the duties of the president and authorizing the transfer of funds held by the University in Charlottesville to Mary Washington. Also approved was a resolution confirming the appointments of all faculty members previously confirmed by the University Board and one empowering the students of the College to assume full responsibility for the Honor System.

It further set the second Friday and Saturday of September, November, March and May for regular meetings and established five standing committees: Executive, Finance, Academic Affairs, Student Affairs, and Buildings and Grounds

Mr. Blackburn was named to head the Finance Committee; Mrs. Brown, Academic Affairs; Miss Perinchief, Student Affairs; and Mr. Cross, Buildings and Grounds. The Executive Committee will be composed of the rector and the chairmen of the four standing committees. The rector also named an ad hoc committee to prepare a manual setting forth the duties and responsibilities of the Board.

In other business the Board elected, upon the recommendation of President Simpson, six additional members to the faculty for the 1972-73 session, and heard reports from several administrative officials on the operation of various areas of the College.

The Rector and Visitors Mary Washington College

Lewis M. Walker, Jr.

The new rector, a Petersburg businessman, served from 1963-70 on the University of Virginia Board of Visitors and was on the Mary Washington College Committee from 1964-70, serving as chairman during the last four years. A graduate of the University of Virginia with B.S. and M.S. degrees, Mr. Walker is president of Builders Supply Company in Petersburg. Earlier in Governor Holton's administration he served on the Executive Committee of the Governor's Management Study Commission.

Joseph E. Blackburn

Currently chief legal adviser to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia and a resident of Richmond, Mr. Blackburn is a graduate of Washington and Lee Law School and holds a B.A. degree from Lynchburg College. He was a member of the State Legislature from 1954-58 and a member of the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia from 1960-71, serving as chairman of the Council during the last three years.

Irene Lundy Brown '39

Mrs. Brown of Newport News is vice president and treasurer of the Ft. Eustis Bus Terminal, Inc. An active alumna of the College, she has served almost continuously on the Alumnae Association Board of Directors since 1950, serving two terms as the Chancellor's appointee and as second vice-president (Fund Chairman). Also active in the Peninsula Chapter of the Alumnae Association since 1947, Mrs. Brown is a past president of that chapter and has served as chairman of the Lucille Wheeler Memorial Fund campaign at the College. Earlier this year she was named a co-recipient of the Outstanding Alumna of the Year award presented by the Peninsula Chapter.

Richard S. Cross Dies

Richard S. Cross, a former member of the Mary Washington College Committee of the Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia and one of the twelve original members named to the new Mary Washington College Board of Visitors, died Wednesday, August 16, at his home in Lafayette Hill, Pennsylvania following a heart attack earlier in the week.

Richard S. Cross

A retired investment consultant from Lafayette Hill, Pennsylvania, Mr. Cross was a member of the University of Virginia Board of Visitors from 1963-71 and served on the Mary Washington College Committee for the entire period. A 1922 graduate of the University of Virginia, his son also graduated from the University in 1954 and his daughter, Virginia Cross graduated from Mary Washington College in 1969.

Gwendolyn Amory Cumming '52

A former public school teacher in Hampton, Mrs. Cumming has served as a member of the Alumnae Association Board of Directors and is a past vice president of the Association. She is also a past member of the Board of Directors of the Peninsula Chapter of the Association. As a student at Mary Washington, Mrs. Cumming was president and treasurer of the student government and in 1952 was the recipient of the Kiwanis Cup which went to that member of the graduating class who had contributed most to the College.

Donna Henninger Henderson '61

The assistant principal of Northside High School in Roanoke County, Mrs. Henderson has served on the Board of Directors of the Alumnae Association and is a former president and vice president of the Roanoke Vallev Chapter of the Alumnae Association. In addition to a B.S. degree in biology from Mary Washington, she holds an M.S. degree in education from Radford College. Before assuming the assistant principalship at Northside High School, she was a guidance counselor and teacher at the same school.

Katherine Edmondson Hopper '29

Currently supervisor of pupil services and county coordinator of pupil services for the Fairfax County Public Schools. In addition to a B.S. degree from Mary Washington College, she holds an M.Ed. degree from George Washington University and has completed additional work at the University of Virginia, the College of William and Mary, and the Harvard University Institute for Administrators of Pupil Personnel Services. A former president of the Virginia Guidance Association and of the Fairfax Education Association, she previously served as supervisor of guidance for the Fairfax County Public Schools.

Ann Louise Perinchief '67

The youngest member of the newly appointed Board, Miss Perinchief has served as Director of Alumnae Affairs at Mary Washington College for the past three years. She left the position August 1 to enter law school at the College of William and Mary in September. Following graduation in 1967 she joined the staff of the Admissions Office at the College, serving as an administrative assistant to the director and as an assistant director. As a student at the College she was named the 1967 recipient of the Thomas Jefferson Cup presented each year by the Alumnae Association in recognition of outstanding achievement and service to the College.

Samuel D. Proctor

A native of Norfolk, Dr. Proctor is a former director of the Peace Corps in Nigeria and currently holds the Martin Luther King Chair in the Graduate School of Education of Rutgers University and last month was elected to succeed the late Adam Clayton Powell as pastor of Harlem's Abyssinian Baptist Church, one of the largest Baptist churches in the country.

A graduate of Virginia Union University and Crozer Theological Seminary, he holds a Th.D. degree from Boston University and is a former president of Virginia Union University and the Agriculture and Technical College of North Carolina. He has also served as an associate director of the Peace Corps in charge of recruitment, training and overseas support of Volunteers, and as special assistant to R Sargent Shriver, when he was director of the newly created Office of Economic Opportunity. Prior to assuming his duties at Rutgers University, he was a University Dean in the central administration at the University

'72 Commencement Ends Era

Degrees were conferred upon 367 Mary Washington College seniors in May Commencement exercises which were held in George Washington Auditorium because of inclement weather.

Nearly 2,000 parents, guests, and faculty members crowded into the auditorium to witness the ceremonies which marked the end of an era for the College—the 28-year affiliation of the College with the University of Virginia. In addition to the presentation of the Darden Award to Miss Ann Mitchell Bowling as the student with the highest academic average, and the presentation of the newly created Grellet C. Simpson Award to Miss Carmen Rivera for outstanding contributions as a faculty member, some 14 students were awarded final thonors and 45 graduated with distinction. Final honors are presented to those graduates who maintain a 3.73 everage or better as juniors. and seniors at the College. General academic attainment of the graduating seniors is recognized through the awards of Distinction, High Distinction, and Highest Distinction, based solely on the student's academic average at Mary Washington College.

In his annual address to the graduating class, Chancellor Simpson asked that they make three commitments: to personal honor or integrity, to

Carmen L. Rivera Named First Recipient of Simpson Award

Miss Carmen L. Rivera, a member of the Mary Washington College faculty since 1955, has been named the first recipient of the Grellet C. – Simpson Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching to be given at Mary Washington.

A native of Vega Alta, Puerto Rico and a Professor of Modern Foreign Languages, Miss Rivera received the award at commencement ceremonies held in May at the College.

Named in honor of Mary Wastington College Chancellor Grellet C. Simpson, the award was made possible by an anonymous friend of the College and is an effort to give recognition to the importance of good undergraduate instruction, a keystone of Dr. Simpson's ducational philosophy during the fiftier of years he has served as Chancellor of Mary Wastington.

In addition to the award, a silver rose bowl designed and made by Asprey and Company of London, England, Miss Rivera received a cash sum. The award will be made annually to a member of the Mary Washington faculty selected by a committee headed by the Dean of the College.

As a Spanish teacher at Mary Washington, Miss Rivera has been active in the classroom and out. She received a B.A. degree from the University of Puerto Rico and holds an M.A. degree from Piorida State College for Women and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Salamanca in Spain.

She has been an active participant in unmerous professional foreign language groups and is currently working on several projects concerning the Spanish author Benito Perez Galdos. In 1967 she organized and arranged an international symposium on Galdos which was held on the Mary Washington College campus, and last year she attended a meeting of the International Association of Hippanists in Salamanca, Spain.

Prior to coming to Mary Washington, Miss Rivera served as an assistant professor of Spanish at the University of Rochester and as a Spanish instructor and director of the Spanish Instructor and director of the Spanish House at Florida State University. She began her teaching career in the rural schools in her hometown, Vega Alta, Puerto Rico, and also served as Teacher of English and as supervisor of English instruction for the Department of Education of Puerto Rico in San Juan.

Ann Mitchell Bowling Wins Darden Award As Top Student

Ann Mitchell Bowling was named the 1972 recipient of the Darden Award, presented each year to that member of the graduating class with the highest scholastic average during her years at Mary Washington College.

A mathematics major, Miss Bowling finished with a cumulative grade-point average of 3.84 out of a possible 4.0 for all work ondertaken at Mary Washington. Named to Phi Beta Kappa as a junior, Miss Bowling also received final honors and was graduated with highest distriction. In April she was named the recipient of the Thomas Jefferson Cup, awarded each year by the Mary Washington College Alumnae Association to the senior who has distinguished hereaft by a cademic achievement and outstanding service to the College.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Bowling, III, of Accomac, Virginia, and a graduate of Onancock High School, she was vice-president of Mortar Board, senior honor society for women; president of Alpha Phi Sigma, national honorary scholastic society; and vice-president of Chi Beta Phi, national honorary scholastic fratternity. During the summer of 1971, she was named the recipient of a scholarship from the English Speaking Union which entitled her to a summer of study in England.

The Darden Award was established in 1960 in honor of Colgate W. Darden, Jr., president of the University of Virginia from 1947 until 1959, and consists of a medal designed by Gaetano Cecere, a former faculty member at the College, and a cash sum.

Mary Washington College: Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow

An Address by Chancellor Grellet C. Simpson

The following is a condensed text of Chancellor Simpson's remarks to the alumnae during the 1972 homecoming activities on April 29, 1972.

This discussion is divided into three parts—the past, the present, and the future. I will attempt to make a comment or so on each one, leaving the largest amount of time for the last—the future—since it is far more important, I think, to prepare for the future than it is to live in the past; however, no one wants to delay the possibilities of continuing to live in the present. I will, then, be rather brief about the past, a little less brief on the present, and more expansive on the future.

It seems to me that most of the last sixteen or seventeen years in the history of Mary Washington should be viewed as a concentrated attempt to consolidate the academic program of the College in order to bring it into some kind of single focus, as opposed to the more diverse and diffuse purposes of the earlier program of study. Certainly the thrust towards the unity, the synthesis of academic programs as conceived in the idea of liberal education, was the thing that guided us, helped us to determine how to make decisions in reference to the academic program, and the expansion of the facilities of the College within the framework of this very highly concentrated and centralized unity. The effort, started under the direction of Dean Alvey, was continued under Dean Whidden and. even now, certain aspects of it are being reviewed and enhanced by Dean Croushore.

An underlying purpose of these years was to establish or to make possible both regional and national recognition of the College as an academic institution. We set goals or means by which this achievement might be measured, at least by people other than ourselves. One of these was the admission to membership in the Southern University Conference, a select group of institutions in the South including only about thirty-five out of all the colleges in the whole southeastern region. The other recognition or mark of achievement of this drive for "academic excellence" is the fact that the College was given a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Now these two things didn't just happen, because to get membership in either one requires that the College achieve a pretty firm and stable view of itself-what it is undertaking to do, how well it is doing it, and whether or not it is meeting the needs and the requirements of the clientele of its own area and the country as a whole. I think, therefore, that we have reason to be proud of the fact that, aside from our own personal evaluations of what we have done, we have received recognition by organizations of outstanding significance and influence both regionally and nationally.

When we move toward the present we find that the faculty two years ago, after through study, made a-wery substantial decision in a complete rorganization, and the word, I think, might be the "liberalization" of the curriculum. For some of us who have come the long way under the focus and the stimulus of the more traditional and highly structured liberal arts Traditional and highly structured liberal arts Programs, it will seem that the faculty has "approved a very permistive, almost nonexistent" structure for achieving a degree at the College, I would like to take credit for getting this study underway, because it seemed to me four or five years ago that, as much as we were succeeding in conducting a liberal arts program at the College, the time had come when this particular focus, this particular enterprise, this particular era, was drawing to a close. For the faculty and the students (students were involved in the committees and in the discussions that took place) the new program is not as strict as the one you would have known, nor as rigid as the one some of us experienced earlier in our own day. but I am inclined to believe that when the time comes, and after experimentation, the College will, without having to go back and pick up the loose ends, actually have been brought into the movement for what is now called, for lack of a better word, by that much overused term. relevance to the modern day. As I said earlier, the programs of the College in the past have been largely controlled within the framework of what we know as liberal education and, among the faculty, the students, the alumnae. people understood what we meant when we talked about liberal arts and sciences. It was something that had been pinned down perhaps a little too rigidly but still pinned down. Now, it seems to me we are in the midst of evolving-

Chancellor Now President

With the separation of Mary Washington College from the University of Virginia, the title of the chief administrative officer of the College changed from Chancellor to President. Thus, on July 1, Chancellor Simpson became President Simpson.

Prior to 1956 the chief administrator of the College was titled the President. In 1956, however, the title was changed to Chancellor to conform organizationally within the University of Virginia system of which Mary Washington was an affiliate College.

not of having determined, but evolving—a new and different philosophy of education that will, if we do our job well and if we begin to understand each other more fully, give us a philosophy of education, a synthesis, a focus, for the next two or three decades. I hope this will be as effective in its way as the traditional liberal arts focus has been in the years past.

Already the College is using new ways of approaching people, their intellectual life, and bodies of intellectual materials. There is an enormous amount of what we call independent study, in addition to the Honors Program that most of you all will remember from your own college days. Young people want this opportunity. They are not always quite as capable of taking the responsibility as they think they are or sometimes as we wish they were, but the fact is that the opportunity is being given, whereas ten years ago the methods of teaching would probably have been mostly classroom lecturing and discussion largely controlled by the faculty member. You will find now that the classroom sessions are sometimes less structured and there is greater freedom about when and whether the class should meet. I personally don't like this because I still think something can and should happen in a classroom. The faculty is far more permissive even about whether tests and examinations are to be givensomething that I am not at all convinced is right. The whole concept of accountability is different, and is going to continue to be different. The process is not finished; it's beginning; and it is going to take form and substance in ways other than just in the academic program. Some of this you can already sense in the greater freedom the students have in moving about the campus; and in the way in which they choose to dress, Many things are contrary to what some of us have experienced in our college days. This is a new way, and I am not saying that it's any better; I think it is new and has to be. What I am cautioning against is thinking that, because it is not the old way, it is, therefore, bound to be wrong. The old way simply cannot endure. The change, though we talk about it a lot, and we laugh at it, the change in this focusing of a philosophy of education is taking place, and the College must grow into it with dignity, and with perception, and with intellectual integrity. Unless we do, I don't think it matters very much whether the buildings are here or whether the grass is green or whether the trees bloom. because after all Mary Washington College is essentially an educational institution, and unless it serves an educational purpose, there is no reason for any of us to be involved in it. One other aspect of the new freedom is the complete rejection by young people of the role of an institution as being in loco parentis. This touches not only the academic life of the College, it touches the social life, the individual experience of the students, as well as of the faculty. I know that many of us would find it much easier to operate the College if the principle of in loco parentis for institutions were effective. But it's as dead as a dodo in the minds of most young people. What we have to do in educational institutions is to find a method and a means of establishing rapport with young people, who are away from the dominance of their families. We hope they are evolving many of the same benefits that perhaps we drew from rules and regulations, restrictions and inhibitions. that sometimes I think we look back upon with nostalgia, but with complete forgetfulness of really how irksome they were when we were enduring them

For the future-and it is time now that I turned to the future- I think you will find that, whether we like it or not, the very nature of the way young people want to live and be, and to study, the emphasis and the benefits derived from the traditional residential college, are going to shift-in fact, as I have pointed out, already have started to shift, I wouldn't take back my own experience in a residential college, but I do feel that the young people do not sense-maybe they do not need-the kind of residential patterns that we were accustomed to. Therefore, when someone tells you that any student may live off the campus if she so desires and has her parents' consent, it's really not terribly revolutionary within the context within which I am speaking, nor is the College going to pieces just because this happens. If there are values in the residential pattern, the kinds of values that we thought we gained for ourselves years ago. if they are inherent in the system, then the residential college, per se, will reestablish itself. Maybe as the wheel turns, we will find that young people will show more eagerness for this way of life, this kind of group dynamic, than we presently feel that they sense in the experience. Whether this be true or not, we have a movement of human beings away from cities, seeking less highly concentrated urban or suburban areas. There is a moving down of people from Washington into Virginia into what is commonly known as the urban corridor, therefore, the number of day students and the role of the day student in a college such as a Mary Washington are inevitably going to change. At one time the whole residential life of thet-College was centered in the isolation of this (institution on this hill, with an occasional diversion into town when permitted. The young persons now are going to be sharing an apartment with other people; they will be willing to cook-they think-and shop-they think-until they are faced with the necessity of doing so. Still, I believe it is true that we will have more and more nonresidential students, and I cannot say anything other than that I feel the change will be good. I think to have a mixture of the two, the residential and the nonresidential, will do more than any one thing to destroy what I have always felt was the unhealthy isolation of academic institutions in terms of their residential life. I value the seclusion, you might say, for benefit of the intellectual life, but we've got to find a way to maintain the seclusion for the intellectual life in a more diversified human residential or nonresidential experience. Now this is not going to be easy to accomplish; the situation is not going to be easy to administer; but the change is one that we've got to make.

Likewise a college cannot be isolated from the community in terms of its services to the community, not only for the young people but also for the adults in the community. As the only degree granting institution within a radius of about fifty miles, Mary Washington has to find means of offering continuing education to people who are willing to work at it-you might say to recharge the batteries, after being away from serious study and structured intellectual experience. We have only talked about this aspect of the future. The Dean just the other day wrote me a note and said, Don't you think that we ought to get underway on this idea this summer? Certainly it is an aspect of the future of the College, a role that the College will need to play, that will be far greater than it ever has been before. We have made only modest beginnings. For example, we have experimented with some of the regular classes being taught at night to see whether or not there will be an interest in the community for taking straight college work-not extension work-in an academic situation. We also are working on a plan by which there will be reduced residential requirements at Mary Washington. This plan would permit a greater freedom and flexibility in the transfer of credits from other institutions so that, with the mobility that is and will be taking place all along the urban corridor, the College will be able to serve a wider community. With so many changes in the future, we also have to be careful not to throw away all that has been achieved in the past, which I referred to as the focus of the liberal arts. When I say the focus on the liberal arts, however, I am not saying on this particular subject, this particular department, this particular course. I suppose that what I am really talking about is the essence of what the liberal arts and sciences undertook to reveal and what it gave to us as the basis of our way of life. We must-and I think the new pattern of attendance at colleges will demand it-we must preserve even in transformed fashion all that we have tried to do academically in the years past. In other words, the danger for us is really to become too oriented to the "now" and in the future forget that what has been done in the past still has relevance-a great deal of relevance, perhaps more relevance than some things that are being done at the moment merely because they seem to be more important in an immediate sense than they are in basic intellectual import. So that you must watch us, you must guide us with your thoughts if in your judgment, to use the proverbial phrase, we throw away the child with the bath water. The child must be preserved, of course, in this new frame of reference.

Legally and technically, we have coeducation, now and for the future. In truth, we have very few gentlemen in our midst. It would be fairly simple for us to put on a campaign—I don't know if it would be successful or not—and by lowering the academic standards or entire men to the campus who would be less well-qualified to do the work than the women who have over the yelfs been admitted to the College. We rejected this practice in the admission of minority groups several years ago, and I see no reason why we should make a change just because we happen to have a minority group at this College called men. I think-and this is only prophecy-if we hold our ground and if our program is relevant and pertinent for the future, and as the urban corridor moves closer to us and the nonresidential aspect of the College increases, there will be, without any lowering of our academic standards at all, a gradual increasing of the number of men until in due course the College will be essentially coed. I don't think that we could, even if we wanted to, retreat into the old days of the single-sex college, much as it had to offer. I do not feel as some people do-that the need for coeducation is a need within the classroom itself. I think we are essentially concerned with the life of the mind, and I am inclined to think that students are human beings first as far as the intellectual life is concerned. They divide into sexes for other reasons and other purposes. However, as long as I am here I can assure you that I will resist any effort to lower the academic standards of the College in order to bring about either a greater number of minority students or a greater number of men on the campus. Right or wrong, that's the way I feel.

The last point that I would like to comment on is one that I am sure some of you may be more interested in than in anything else. The whole idea of separation from the University of Varginia may need some statement of explanation, interpretation. I can't understand exactly why, when the decision was made, it was greeted with surprise by a goodly number of alumnae who, if they had been in contact with the College or public education in the last eight or nine years, could have anticipated it.

The first approach to this topic emerged in the so-called Russell Report of the Byrd Commission on Higher Education, which published its findings in 1965. At this time the policy for State-supported institutions was established that all four year colleges should move towards a separate identity and not be a part of a larger unit. Some of us felt at the time, though we agreed with the policy for the moment, in view of other things then afoot it might be better if the College remained within the University until such time as other goals had been achieved. Two of these were membership in the Southern University Conference and admission to Phi Beta Kappa. But the fact is that the policy upon which the decision has now been made was established that long ago. The Future of the College Report which was completed in 1969 recognized the fact that inevitably separation would take place, but it cautioned that we review the change very carefully before we took quick action. Of course, the Self Study of only recent date came up with exactly the same recommendationthat the separation take place-and the Self Study Report contains a good bit of Material on this topic. To be truthful, you cannot overlook the fact that the whole connection of the College with the University started really because it was mutually advantageous to the two institutions. It was a means-and this is putting it bluntly-it was a means by which women could be kept out of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Virginia. No matter how smart you were, you couldn't get in. Your brother equally smart, could.

With the decision to admit women to the College of Arts and Sciences of the University, the special identity of Mary Washington as the liberal arts college for women of the University of Virginia immediately ceased. There would be no identity except as a college in Fredericksburg that had an affiliation with the University of Virginia; there was no role; there was no uniqueness. However, there has always been sovereignty in practically total fact. Financially, our appropriations have been made separately from Charlottesville, what endowment we have is ours and what has been in the University trust will come back to us as of July 1. Our faculty has been autonomous. It isn't necessary, it has never been necessary, to clear decisions of our faculty regarding academic programs. Our faculty is appointed and has been appointed to Mary Washington College and is subject to the jurisdictions of our own government. I think in the years ahead, if we use our sovereignty and independence well, we will develop a new identity or maybe we will develop the identity that we have always had but have never been able to bring forward. At least it seems to me that this is one aspect of the essential growth and program of the College in the next decade or so. I can see ahead of us only a most exciting future. If I were younger and had time to live my life over again, I myself could not choose a better opportunity, if it were offered, than to lead the College and to work with all of you in the years that are to come. The future, I think, is exceedingly promising for Mary Washington. We will have our ups and downs, but I think we've got to put our heads to thinking and our hearts to mending, and not be what Frank Rogers (former Rector of the University, a friend of ours and of the College) used to callhis wife teased him-heart rendering. We don't want any heart renderings going on, but we do want plenty of heart and mind in the venture that lies ahead. I trust, therefore, that we can count not only on your hope but also on your cooperation, your support, and your belief in what we are going to try to do in the future.

Ruby York Weinbrecht Assumes Duties As College Librarian

Ruby York Weinbrecht '48 has been named Librarian at Mary Washington College, succeeding Mr. Daniel H. Woodward.

The appointment, which became effective July 1, was announced by Mary Washington College Chancellor Grellet C. Simpson and approved by the University of Virginia Board of Visitors at that body's June meeting.

A native of South Carolina, Mrs. Weinbrecht comes to the College from the U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission where she has served as chief of the Technical Information Division since 1967. In addition to a B.A. degree in History from Mary Washington, she holds an M.A. degree in library science from George Peabody Library School and has done work toward a Ph.D. degree at the Graduate Library School of the University of Chicago.

A past president of the Mary Washington College Alumnae Association, Mrs. Weinbrecht has served as managing editor of the Marketing Information Guide and as supervisory librarian with the Business and Defense Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce, and as eataloging editor and a senior decimal classifier with the Library of Congress.

In addition, she has been acquisitions librarian at Vassar College, regional post librarian with the Army Library Service in Japan, reference librarian and assistant professor of library science at Ball State University; and thief of reader services and assistant professor of library science at Indiana State University.

A contributor to numerous professional journals, Mrs. Weinbrecht recently authored the History of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 1965-70, for the Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library, She also served as editor of D.C. Libraries, the quarterly journal of the District of Columbia Library Association.

The wife of Mr. Standau E. Weinbrecht, an attorney with the federal government, Mrs. Weinbrecht is listed in: Who's Who in the South and Southwest; Who's Who of American Women; Forenest Women in Communications; Who's Who of American Education; and Who's Who in Library Science.

Departing Librarian Daniel H. Woodward Honored at Reception

Daniel H. Woodward, departing Librarian, was honored at a reception in June at which the College's Rare Book Room was renamed in his honor.

In addition, two rare volumes—a collection of poems by John Donne printed in 1669 and a 1651 edition of poems by Thomas Carew—were donated to the College in his honor, to be placed in the newly named Daniel H. Woodward Rare Books Library.

Mr. Woodward, who left the College on July 1 to assume his duties as Librarian of the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery in San Marino, California, was instrumental in establishing the rare book collection at the College.

A member of the faculty since 1957, he was named Libratian in 1968 following the death of Dr. Carroll Q. Quenzel. He assumed the duties in July, 1969, following a one year leave of absence in which he completed work on an M.S. in Library Science at the Catholic University of America.

The rare book collection at the College now contains nearly 1,000 volumes, one third of which were in the College's original collection. Since its establishment fifty rare books have been donated to the collection and the College has spent nearly $16,000 for additional purchases.

Activist Saul Alinsky, '72 Distinguished Visitor, Dies In California

Social activist Saul Alinsky, who was Mary Washington College's 1972 Distinguished Visitor in Residence, died unexpectedly at his home in California on June 12.

Mr. Alinsky, who referred to himself as a "professional radical" visited the Mary Washington College campus on March 22 and 23 this year.

In addition to a major address on "The Revolt of the Middle Class: Woman Power," he met with students in classroom and informal sessions throughout the two day visit.

Mr. Alinsky spent more than 25 years organizing citizens of depressed and oppressed communities into power blocs to gain equality in education, jobs and housing. He first gained widespread attention in the 1930's with his Back of the Yard Council in the stums surrounding Chicago's stockyards.

He was the second Distinguished Visitor in Residence to visit the campus in the program made possible by the Alumnae Association.

Summer Humanities Institute Ends Third Successful Year

The third Summer Arts and Humanities Institute at Mary Washington College came to a successful conclusion on July 28th as some 170 high school students from Stafford County and throughout the state returned to their homes

Sponsored once more by the Stafford County School System and Mary Washington College, the four-week session featured a variety of workshops, seminars and field trips focused on the creative fields of art, writing, dance, drama, and music.

The theme this year was "Towards a New Image of Man" and the program activities were primarily designed to explore this topic.

Guest speakers and performers during the four-week ression included Chick Larson, cartoonist for the Richmond Times-Dispatch; Mrs. Frances Wessells, an authority on dance from Richmond, Peter Carroll, an award winner in the Young People's Film Festival; Virginia Freeman, from the Arena Stage in Washington; George Oliver, a history professor from Randolph-Macco College; Jeanette Comer and Helen Ortega, who presented an Elizabethan Evening of music and recitation; and Baylor Nichols, art education supervisor for the State Department of Education.

The Institute concluded on July 27 with a Humanities Fair at which the fruits of the month of activities were put on display for the parents of the students and the local community. In addition to works of art and crafts, there were presentations in dance, music, and drama.

Retiring Faculty Members Elected to Emeritus Rank

Three retiring members of the Mary Washington College faculty were elected to the rank of Professor Emeritus, a final honor climaxing careers which totaled sixty-five years of service to Mary Washington.

of service to Mary watmignor.

In one of its final acts as the governing body of the College, the University of Viginia Board of Visitors conferred emeritus status upon Mrs. Zoe Wells Black, Professor of Biology and a member of the Mary Washington faculty for twenty-five years; Mrs. Jean Slater Edson, Professor of Wasie and Physics and a member of the faculty for twenty-five years; and Mr. George E. Luntz, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Music and a member of the faculty for fitten years.

In order to be eligible for Emeritus status, a faculty member must have served the College for at least fifteen years and retire while holding the rank of Professor.

Pay, Fee Increases Approved For 1972-73

An across the board pay increase for Mary Washington College faculty members and a fee increase for students were approved by the University of Virginia Board of Visitors in its final meeting as the governing body of the College in June. Both increases become effective with the opening of the 1972-73 session.

The $200 salary increase follows a similar $100 raise last year and is in addition to the normal annual increments of $300 and $400 for teachers who have not reached the top of the pay range for their particular rank. It brings the faculty salary range at Mary Washington to $7.400 to $16.000.

The pay raise will be financed in part by an additional charge of $50 in general college fees. The higher fees were needed to supplement funds made available earlier by the General Assembly for the salary increase.

The jump in student costs will bring the general college fees up to $735 a year and will increase the basic annual costs for on-campus, in-state students to $1,605 and for out-of-state students to $2,405.

Alma Mater Updated To Reflect Coeducation

The lyrics of the Mary Washington College Alma Mater have been changed slightly to reflect the switch from a women's college to a coeducational institution.

In updating the school song, which was written and composed in 1947 by Irenc Taylor and Jean Crotty, it was only necessary to change the phrase "we your loyal daughters" in the second verse to "we your sons and daughters." The change was approved of by the authors and by the Class of '47 when it met officially at homecoming this year.

1972-73 Session Opens August 26

The 1972-73 session at Mary Washington College will get underway on Sturday, August 26, with the arrival of some 676 freshmen and 49 transfer students. Returning students, who are scheduled to begin arriving three days later, are expected to bring enrollment for the first semester to nearly 2,200.

Registration for the fall semester will take place on Tuesday, August 29 with classes beginning on Wednesday, August 30, He first semester is scheduled to conclude on December 18. Second semester will get underway on January 13, and conclude on May 12. Craduation exercises will be Saturday, May 19.

Bulent I. Atalay Sketches White House, Prepares Portfolio

Bulent I. Atalay, Associate Professor of Physics at Mary Washington College, is working on a series of drawings of the White House that he was invited to do for the nation's first family.

Mr. Atalay was invited by an administrative assistant at the White House, on behalf of Mrs. Nixon, to draw some sketches of the presidential mansion and grounds. He hopes to complete the series of six or more drawings before leaving for Oxford University in September. Mr. Atalay will spend one year at the English university, doing research in theoretical physics.

In addition to the White House series, Mr. Atlany is completing a two-volume portfolio of stetches entitled Lands of Washington: Impressions in link. Volume one of the collection contains eighteen 14 by 17 drawings of historic Virginia landmarks including such places as Mount Vernon, Stratford Hall, Guntoch Hall, and Kenmoer. The second volume contains 16 sketches of landmarks in and around Fredericksburg.

Both volumes of the portfolio will be put on public display for the first time at a reception on August 27. The event, which is being arranged by the Junior Board of Historic Frederickshup Foundation, Inc. will be from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. at the Wells House, where the HFFI offices are located. In addition to 300 first edition copies of both volumes, there will be an elite edition of 100 copies of volume one.

The Alumnae Association still has prints of campus scenes drawn by Mr. Atalay. Two other sketches-one of duPont Hall and the other a front view of Brompton-have been made available since the Association announced the sale of the prints. Others still available include drawings of Ann Carter Lee Hall, E. Lee Trinkle Library, Monroe Hall, Seacobeck Dining Hall, and a view of Brompton from the rose garden. All of the prints are matted and are 12 by 16. One print may be purchased for $3.50; while the purchase price for two is $6.75; for three, $10.00; and for four $12.50. Any inquiries or orders should be directed to the Mary Washington College Alumnae Association, College Station Box No. 1315, Fredericksburg, Virginia 22401. Checks should be made payable to: Mary Washington College Alumnae Association.

Noting that the late Adlai E. Stewnson called self-criticism the score weapon of democracy. Chancelor Simpson stated that "our present dilemma stems largely from the simple fact that our age is willing to subject itself to self-criticism," adding that "we must endure and surmount and profit from this era of self-criticism, this period of great doubt and dislusionment, this generation of despair and hopelessness—or helplessness.

"It is not a lost era or a lost generation" he added, "if we are willing to commit ourselves to the total welfare and well-being of mankind in order that he may be reinstated in dignity and in worth in new and different terms."

One further highlight of the sixty-first commencement at Mary Washington College was the graduation of four male students—the first to graduate since the College officially became co-ducational in July, 1970. It was the first time since the Korean War period, when veterans were given special permission to emoil at the women's college, that men have been among the graduates. The last male graduate prior to this year's commencement exercise was Dennis C. Moriarity who graduated in 1958.

Diana Koski, New Director of Alumnae Affairs

The Alumnae

Diana D. Koski Assumes Duties As Director of Alumnae Affairs

Mrs. Diana D. Koski has been named Director of Alumnae Affairs at Mary Washington College, succeeding Miss Ann Louise Perinchief '67, who has served in that position since January 1969.

A native of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Koski will assume her duties as Director of the College's alumnae association on August 1, the date that Miss Perinchief will leave the position prior to entering law school at the College of William and Mary in September.

A graduate of Shepherd College in West Virginia where he majored in English and minored in journalism, Mrs. Koski has served as Alumnae Director at Hood College in Frederick, Maryland, for the past three years. When named to the position in 1969 she was the youngest and first non-alumnae selected to direct alumnae affairs at Hood College. As Director she was responsible for organizing workable and innovative programs for alumnae, editing the quarterly Hood College Alumnae Magazine, and directing the annual alumnae fund.

In addition, she organized new alumnae clubs and revitalized older ones; planned alumnae college and reunion weekends; set up workshops for club presidents and alumnae admission representatives and an Alumnae-apponsored prospective student weekend which brought more than 300 high school junions to the campus. At Mary Washington, Mrs. Koski will assume similar responsibilities. She is only the second full time Alumnae Director in the College's history. Prot to Miss Perinchiel's appointment, the post had been filled on a partitime basis.

Prior to serving at Hood College, Mrs. Koski worked one year as a feature writer, photographer, and assistant family section editor of the Daily Mail newspaper in Hagerstown, Maryland. While a student, she also worked several summers with newspapers in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The wife of Mr. Ronald J. Koski, who will be teaching in the Stafford County School System in 1972-73, Mrs. Koski was recently selected to compete for the Maryland State title of Young Career Woman of the Year

In addition, Mr. Samuel T. Emory, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Geography, was named faculty representative acceeding Sidney H. Mitchell, Professor of English; and Mrs. Itense Fitzpatrick Vash was named senior class representative.

Other returning members of the Board include Lucy Houston Christian '26; Joanne Campbell Close '60; Susan Rutan Joehnk '63; Sally Souder '66; and Jamle Redwood Witzel '41.

Molly Vaughan Parrish '29 Named Recipient of Distinguished Alumna Award

Molly Vaughan Parish '29 was named the recipient of the Mary Washington Collect Alumna Association's Distinguished Alumna Award for 1972 at homecoming activities in April. The sixth recipient of the award initiated in 1966, Mrs. Parrish was presented with an engraved silver platter to commemorate her selection.

The award is made each year to an alumna who, in the opinion of her fellow alumnae, has made an outstanding contribution in the arts or sciences, or humanitarian causes. Selection by the Awards Committee is based upon accomplishment in one or several of these areas.

A resident of Newport News, Mrs. Parrish recently retired from the University of Virginia Board of Visitors after serving eight years with that body. As a member of the Board she became the second Mary Washington College alumna to serve as chairman of the Mary Washington College Committee.

Ms. Parrish operated a private school in Newport News for many years before teaching in the public schools of that city, which she had attended as a child. In 1965, she was named the first Coordinator of Reading in Newport News and in 1967 became the Director of the Laboratory Center of Reading for the Newport News school system, one of the first such centers established in the nation. She retired from both of these positions in 1970.

Long an active member of the Alunnae of the Association, Mrs. Parrish is a past president of the Association and the Peninsula Chapter in the Tidewater area. In addition, she has served as president of the Newport News tranch of the American Association of University Women and of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honor society for women in education.

In addition to her B.S. degree from Mary Washington College, she holds an M.A. degree in the psychology of reading from Temple University and has completed extension work at the College of William and Mary and the University of Virginia.

Mrs. Parrish is the wife of Mr. E. Alton Parrish of Newport News and has three sons, Edward, Jr., and David, both of Charlottesville, and Russell, of Portsmouth; and two grandsons.

Presentation of Thomas Jefferson Cup Is Discontinued

The Alumnae Association Board of Directors voted at its June meeting to terminate the presentation of the Thomas Jefferson Cup, given each year to an outstanding senior, and has established a committee to make recommendations on a new award.

The Thomas Jefferson Cup was initiated by the Association in 1944 to commemorate the affiliation of Mary Washington College with the University of Virginia—an affiliation which officially ended on July 1st of this year.

The award has been presented each year to that member of the Senior Class who, during her years at Mary Washington College, has distinguished herself by academic achievement and outstanding service to the College. This year's winner, the final recipient of the award, was Miss Ann Mitchell Bowling, a mathematics major from Accomac, Virginia.

The committee named to make recommendations on a new award is scheduled to report to the Board of Directors in September.

Alumnae Fund Drive Shows Decline For Second Straight Year

The Mary Washington College Alumnae Association received $25,895.78 from 1,579 contributors in the Annual Fund Drive which concluded on June 30, 1972.

Total figures for the drive were down in almost every category from the previous year when $27,416.63 was received from 1848 contributors. It marks the second consecutive year that overall giving has declined.

Each year individual alummae contributions accounted for 85 percent of the total amount received. In 1971, however, 1,780 alummae contributed $23,472.21, while in 1972, some 1507 contributed $22,148.28. The average contribution per individual dropped from $7.58 to $6.80. In three categories there were increases. There was a marked increase in alumane chapter gifts with seventeen gifts totaline § 1, 517.50 in 1972. Compared To eight gifts totaline § 600 in 1971. Faculty and staff contributions totaled 3.1285 this year compared to $1.056 a year ago. There were also sixty-wow 1000 contributors in the just concluded drive compared to fifty-one members of the Century Club in 1971. One notable decrease occurred in contributions from local businesses. In 1971, $1,230 was received from fifteen businesses; this year $310 was received in four contributions. The major source of revenue for the Alumnae Association comes from the fund drive each year. It is used for a number of purposes not the least of which is serving the Association membership. The drive also permits the Association to contribute to the development of the College.

Contributions to the College by the Association include the Alumnae Scholarship Fund which is maintained at $5,000 and is used to aid deserving students and faculty members with special projects or research; the recently instituted Distinguished Visitor in Residence program which has brought anthropologist Margaret Mead and social activist Saul Alinsky to the campus; and the President's Unrestricted Fund which permits the President of the College to make needed improvements in the College's program for which state funds are normally not available.

Deaths

Miss Jeannette Marie Hess, of 609 Hawke Street, died May 22, 1972, at Riverside Convalescent Home, in Federicksburg, Va. She had been a patient there for ten days, although she had been in declining health for the last year.

She was a 1912 graduate of the State Normal School, predecessor to Mary Washington College, with a professional elementary certificate.

She was born March I, 1888, at Winfled, Long Island, New York, the daughter of Daniel F. Hess and Jennie Benseline Hess. The family moved to Spotsylvania County near Four Mile Fork when she was two months old. After her parents' death she operated the farm, "Hesshaven", herself until she sold it in 1961 and moved to Fredericksburg.

The Mary Washington College Alumnae Association wishes to express its deepest sympathy to Esther Cain Michelbach, '41, whose husband passed away in May, 1972; to the family of Winifred Amory DeAlba, '37, who died recently; to the family and friends of Lucy Wilkins Ferguson, '19, who passed away in March: to Jean LeMasurier and family on the death of her sister last fall; to the family of Helen Dix Pollard Johnson, '34, who passed away earlier this year; to Clara Sue Durden Ashley, '61, whose father passed away on February 26, 1972; to Charlene Parrotta Dahl, '56, upon the death of her father on March 8, 1972; to Linda Challain Blair, '70. upon the death of her husband Tom, May, 1971; to the family of Leah Arnold Godsey, '15, March, 1972; to Gladys (Betty) Griffith Beveridge on the death of her husband, Andrew B. Dear "Girls":

Our plans for Homecoming did not materialize this year. Virginia Bolen and Elsie Wood Rice will be the only ones to represent the Class of "1915". I shall miss seeing the group, some others, the Simpsons and just being on the Campus I shall spend that day, April 29th, in Lancaster County at a Fifth District UDC meeting, Hopefully someone will write me about the Homecoming this

Had nice letters from Edna Gibbs Hunter and Sarah Gouldmon McAllister saying they would not be able to make the Homecoming this year. Sarah's health prevents her from doing much travel. I am sure she is justly proud of her family for their achievements. A grandson in his third year at Yale has beeo selected as an exchange student to the University of Leningrad, Russia, His course will be seven weeks long and all the work will be in the Russian language. Before returning home he plans visits to Vienna, Germany and Paris. Sarah's daughter, Betty, and her daughter, a dental hygienist, will fly to Spain in May to attend a convention. Another daughter, Rita Boothby, recently had a story published in a magazine for which she received a monetary award. She is now working on other short stories and a novel. Perbaps you will be reading some of her writings in the future. This is a very talented family! Sarab sends the girls her best thoughts and wishes.

Edna is back home now in Portsmouth after spending six weeks during January and February at Indian Harbor Beach in Florida with her daughter and family. She eojoyed the sunshine and temperature of the South. She wrote that a sister and her son had been visiting her. Edna regretted that she couldn't get to Fredericksburg. She also wrote that she spent Easter on the Eastern Shore with her sister.

Lillian Waring Edwards wrote that Leah Arnold Godsey, an Abridged Jun-ior, Class of 1915, died March 1972. I believe she and Lillian were roommates Our sympathy to her relatives and

I had a recent letter from Mrs. Tyner, recalling some of the memories of "1915". It was a delight to see a Kodak picture and a "write-up" in the last aroused many emotions and I was glad to see it. I believe we are indebted to Molly Coares for this picture. Like myself, the Tyners need rest between activities so as to rebuild their energy. They enjoy church, social events and Ettienette Broaddus Moore calls occasionally and tells of her "goings and comings". One of her recent trips was to see a cousin in Lakeland, Florida for two weeks. She took trips to Disney World, Plant City, Busch Garden and a ride through the Everglades. She found the weather cold when she had dressed for a warmer clime. I told her she should be writing a book; that from her description, I felt like I was there with her. ntly she saw the account of Jessie Lord's death, a sister of Ruth ('13). Ettienette was able to visit the funeral home and meet Ruth's daughter and three grandchildren from Toledo, Ohio. Another link with the past. Ettienette had taught two years with Ruth before she married Mr. Boswell.

I was much interested when I read in the Richmond paper of a Memorial Pet Cemetery on Terrill Drive that was once owned and operated by Hansford Rowe, Isabel Willis Rowe's husband. Since the death of Hansford, Isabel had operated it, but now it was being transferred to other hands. We live to learn!

I think this is the city; I can't refer to the book now. I well remember working with Gay in Y.W.C.A. work while at Mary Washington College. She was such a moving force.

Once I came as a delegate to Rich-mond and remember riding in an open car down the streets of the city. I was wearing a borrowed hat with a red feather and part of it blew away with the wind. I don't recall how the owner accepted this loss.

Virginio Bolen and Morgaret Sayre Ransome didn't write at Christmas as they usually do, but interesting letters came later. Virginia was extremely busy before the holidays. Though never mar-ried, she claims 29 grandchildren and attempts to remember all of them. Then, too, her organizations used her time and talents at Christmas. Margaret was involved in some near-

I sent a note of sympathy to Mr. Erle Theimer and received a nice little "In Memoriam" card from him. All of our class often think of him.

In a letter from Virginia Sounders recently, she inquired about Frances Harrell. Said she taught with her at Edmund Pendleton, Caroline County. How about this? When Virginia was reading in an old book recently she found an absentee slip with some initials on it such as DSD, ABC Jr., WLH, etc.

Can you recognize them?

Elsie Wood Rice was sick in the early winter, but has recovered now. Her grandson and family from Richmond spent Easter with Elsie and her family. Sorry to hear that Calvin Twiddy has been sick also. We miss him and often think of him.

We were distressed that only six attended our 55th class reunion; namely: Lillie Michie Behreodt, Elitenamely: Lillie Michie Behreodt, Ellie beth Hoile Cloe, Effie Berry Fuqua, Lucy Poyne Link, Josephine Spindle and Imogen Ellis Daniel, Class Agent Thelmo Ellis Sutton (21), Elsie Wood Rice (15), Juliet Wore Parker (21) Annie Latane Wore Bedinger (13) and Pauline Sneod Snead joined us and added to our pleasure. After registration on Friday a number of us enjoyed dinner at Seacobeck Dining Hall which was followed by a Gala party at Spotswood where we all partook of deli refreshments. The Continental Breakfast on Saturday at duPont Hall foyer was great success, followed by the annual meeting of the alumnae. The address by Dr. Grellet C. Simpson, Chancellor, or "Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow" was most informative. At 12:30 p.m., the Luncheon at Brompton was the high light of the weekend. We could new have had better weather and a men beautiful setting-the dogwoods, azaless lilacs, etc. in full bloom and table loaded with delicious food made a sight to behold. Some of our class enjoyed the performance by the dance student from classes and the MWC Dance Conpany. At 6:00 p.m. the Buffet Dinn at the Holiday Inn was most enjoyable You could never have had more delicious food and a greater variety that was served. At 8:15 p.m. the perfor nce of Moliere's Don Juan, sponsore by the Drama Dept, was outstanding att evening. The gala weekend closed will a very tasty breakfast at Seacobeck Hal from 8:00 to 9:00 a.m. and we parte hoping to meet next year. Anyone interested in having a

The month of April is always a time that I look forward to for it means Spring. I love to see things come to life. Here in Collambia this time of the year, it is hreathtakingly beautiful for nearly white dogwood and purple wisteria, climbing to the top of the tallest pines and making the city look like fairyland. This year was a little different for me or when all of this was at its pest, I was very good tecovery but when I got home, I must have picked up a "bug" and I really had a much worse time with that than I old with all the sungery. Today I am just coming out of the like I night make it.

In March, Belle Ferguson Dorey broke her long silence and wrote to me and it was mighty good to hear from her. Belle was a very smart girl and fortunately for me, she was my partner in physics. It was a good thing for me, for without her, I'm afraid I would never have made it! Belle writes: "Since I am 75 and my husband 80 this year, we are limited in the things we can do. My husband hasn't been well since 1967 but 1 am much better than I was in '64-'65. I drive to church, shopping and to the doctor. I drove down from Virginia last October as our oldest son, who usually drives us, was in his second tour of Vietnam. Next February he will finish up his twenty years in the Army. Our other sons are doctors, one a Urologist in Woodbury, N.J., the other finishing his studies to become an orthopedic surgeon in June in Los Angeles. The fiftieth anniversary of the Class of 1922 was celebrated at the Home-coming at the College April 28-30, 1972. It was an occasion to be long remembered by those who attended. Although only seven members attended this Homocoming, these seven attended most of the affairs offered to the alumnae. The highlights of the whole Home coming were the loncheon at Brompton and Moliere's Don Juan. Our group met under one of the lovely trees at Bromp ton where we enjoyed a good lunch and fellowship of old classmates. Since all of our group was present we decided to have our class meeting at this lovely setting. A number of suggestions were made that we wanted considered for future Homecomings:
(1) That future Homecomings be

(1) That future Homecomings be held at a time such that dormitory rooms near Spottswood House would be available to alumnae at a nominal price. This would enable alumnae to see more of each other.

(2) That at least at one of the functions the alumnae of the various classes he recognized in some way. Probably at the dinner meeting a Master of Ceremonies could welcome the entire group and at this meeting the various classes could also be recognized.

(3) That the first dinner at Seacobeck Hall be better planned. Even though each alumna who requested same was given a ticket for the evening dinner, those in the dining room did not act as if they expected us. Perhaps at another Homecoming this might be better arranged.

(4) However, our most important suggestion was that each one of our group make a special effort to get more of our class on the active list of Alumnae-send in news, attend Homecomings and in general just take a greater interest in our college.

In order to be present at Homecoming I was accompanied by a registered nurse. It was probably not the part of wisdom to attempt the trip at all, but it was with high hopes that many would attend their forty-fifth reunion at Mary Washington on April 28, 29 and 30, 1 underwent major surgery on my cervical spine on March 9 and am still partially invalided by it. I attempted to move from my chair to the abundantly filled luncheon buffet table in the rose garden at Brompton and scarcely made it back, even with aid. The beauty of the grounds cheered me, however. The white flowering dogwood in christening array, the crimson azaleas filled with the life of spring and the budding maples exuding a trembling kind of tenderness as the gentle breezes played upon them, strengthened me in spirit. I was sorry that due to my lack of strength, it was impossible for me to speak a word of appreciation to the distinguished Chancellor and his wife.

As many as three people ten years older or more-members of the class of 1917-were present. When there is only one present, such as I in this instance, discouragement tends to take over. Perhaps I could have done more by way of correspondence, but when I did do it, there was not enthusiastic cooperation. III health, of course, may be a factor; there are always family problems of one kind and another, but, then, there always are problems, in one degree or another, and one simply has to mak the sacrifice and pull away. The Class of 1927 has some interesting vital people. who have done well not only in their professions and business ventures but also in the rearing of attractive and able families. Naturally, I didn't present myself at the meeting center for class agents. Rather than commune with myself in public, I spent quiet moments in my motel room wondering why no one else, especially those in good health, had bestirred herself to attend such a wellplanned Homecoming. I had to miss the dance program in order to rest, but understand it possessed professional

April 29 found me driving to MWC for Homecoming. Rosella Tuck Davidson rode with me. That, itself, was a treat. We arrived a bit before nine; in time for coffee and pastries, served in duPont Hall where the general session of the Alumnae Association would convene.

The meeting was much informative, as to the trend toward 'self-study', and Mary Washington participation, The association informed us that we

Can we, the class of '40, seriously increase our interest and help? This organization helps in many ways with college activities. No news has come to me-

Three graduates are members of the same high school faculty as f. They are: Jeannette Longo Bilmond '52, Arcelle Calborne Collier '39 and Betty Marrissetti Rice '42.

Seriously girls, my second year as class agent is poor. Who is ready to replace me? Maxine M. Salle

Dear Girls,
First 1 must apologize for the absence of news recently. Then, Helen Mayer Russell, please accept my regrets for omitting you from the news. I was for a manufactured beautiful properties. hoping I would have the opportunity to apologize in person at the reunion. Helen's husband, Milo, is a teacher of fine arts at Virginia Commonwealth University. They have a daughter, Lynne, age fourteen. Helen has been teaching since she left MWC in 1940 and is presently teaching the non-graded third at Curtis Elementary in Chester. She is also taking evening classes at We who attended the reunion had a perfectly wonderful time. All fourteen of us. Where were the rest of you? The campus is lovely as ever with the excampus by those with less stamina than we possessed. Those of you who have never been back wouldn't believe all the new buildings. We dined on shrimp in the dining hall Friday evening. That isn't easy to believe either. Later in the evening we had a Gala time at Spots-wood, the Alum. House. It was really delightful. Not only do classmates meet and renew memories but friendships with girls from those other classes when we were there are cemented.

Saturday we went to Brompton for the garden party luncheon done with traditional graciousness so dear to me. In the evening a sumptuous buffet was held at the Holiday Inn. Many events, activities and entertainment were avail able throughout the weekend, Forty twoers attending were: Edna Reed Goffigon, Shirley Wingo Saunders, Alice Howerton Estes, R. Irene Lorincz Bode, Helen Starnell Wills (put this in your little book-Helen's new address: 8519 Hanford Drive, Richmond, Va. 23229), Gwen Miller Reams (we'll all bring foot powder the next time Gwen), Marjorie Burgess Parce, Mary Pride Hunninghake, A. Isabel Gordon, Glade Burnette, Ruth Sprdlin and yours truly. Evelyn, Mar-iorie B. and Marjorie L. came complete with husbands Wilbur John and Edwin

Through the courtesy of Ann Perinchief, Alumnae Director, and the efforts of Isabel Gordon we had a class gettogether at Spotswood Saturday evening together at Spotswood Saturday evening after the play. We chatted, nibbled, looked at annuals and viewed the new class scrap book which has so little in it it is really quite pathetic. The wheels are turning with plans for our 35th. Now I know how and what to do. We want a large group. You will have ample notice for making your plans. Very few excuses will be acceptable. I need lots of tid bits for the news and material for the scraphook Pictures

Homecoming 1972—there were only 4 of us, but we had a great time! There were Frances Rice of Newport News, Virginia Johnson Moeller of Hyattsville, Md., Suzanne Decker Sugg of Greenville, NC and me.

Do hope all 32 from our 25th guaion-and more-will be planning on our 30th next year, April 27-29, 1973, Send in your ideas; planning will begin soon! We had such a great time talking, remembering and laughing together in 1988.

I had a phone call from Peg Pugh Pittard; she was hoping to come for Saturday. She and her husband and daughter moved to Chamberlayne Farms in Richmond. Daughter Connie is grad-usting from MWC after attending Meregith and Roanoke Colleges and is plan aing to do graduate work at Georg Washington. I cannot tell you how exciting it was to meet the daughter of a classmate for whom you have been looking many years. Monita Fontaine was a student lader of the discussion group led by Mr. Michael Houston. As she talked with me following the meeting, she spied my name tag with '43 and said "I'll bet you know my mother. Who is your mother? Shearer Fontaine married an Army man, has lived in Germany, England and lately San Antonio, Texas. Monita, a lovely and very interesting young lady, is a rising senior in political science.

The class of 1946 regrets the passing of their classmates Ronno Faulkner Simpson and Ola Bly Jarrell. We extend our sympathy to their families.

Many thanks to Jean Purrian Stephenson for letting the Homecoming notice remind her to send me news. Jean is busy with civic and club work in Portsmouth. There are three other MWC alumnae who sing in the church choir with her. Wish she had included their names and class!

A very welcome letter came to me from one of our "lost" classmates, Dorothy Adams Kiger. Dorothy wrote that the MWC Alumnae finally caught with her after 26 years. Dorothy and her family have moved to Southern California after living in the Bay Area for twenty years. Her husband, Louis, is Coordinator of University Employees' for the California State Employee's Association and they are living in Santa Ana. They have two children, Marta, a sophomore in high school and an adop-ted daughter, Krista, who is a third grader. Dorothy is active in Girl Scouting and is co-director of Girl Scout Day Camps for Santa Ana this summer Dorothy wrote that Joen Rosenthal Jessen lives in McMurray, Pa, and has e children

Have you contributed to Alumnae Annual Giving? You know if every alumnae would send just one dollar we would have no problem, as it is we are just short of our goal. Wouldn't it be great if the class of 1946 could have the largest percent of contributors. Sit down right now and write a check to the Alumnae Association, Let's see how high we can go with our percent of class members contributing.

Your class agent was the only member of '46 to attend Homecoming this year. It was really lonesome after seeing all of you there last year. Anne McCaskill Libis, class agent for 1949, kept me company on the drive to Fredericksburg. It was the first really spring Saturday we have had and the campus was lovely with pink and white dogwood and other flowers.

Hello hello wherever you are! It was a great 25th reunion. The only missing ingredient was you who didn't make it back to MWC on April 29. We missed you, whatever your reasons for not

In the process of class business you can see from the heading to this news that you have a new class agent. I promise to do my part in reporting for you if you each do your part in sending your happenings. Write during your coffee break or hang the address in your purse and add to your list of "wish you were here" postcards. Irene Toylor Robinson had a letter from Mr. Houston, Assistant Chancellor, regarding the school song which had been written and presented by our class during our senior year. To refresh your memories a little bit-trene wrote the music for it and Jean Crotty was responsible for the words. Since MWC is changing status from a women's college to a coed institution, it was obvious that a line in the song needed updating. It was suggested and approved by all class members present that the phrase "we your loyal daughters" be changed to "we your sons and daughters. Many of our reunioning classmates were accompanied by their husbands. Prudence Burchard Gerberg had her lovely 14 year old daughter, Andrea, with her. College graduations this year are: Ruthie Meyer Butler's son-University of Texas; Virginia Pinchbeck Covington's son-U.S. Naval Academy, Annspolis; Rebecca Remy Harding's son-UPI; Doris Lippold Burne's son-University of Maryland, Any daughters out there to go with these sons?

Nelle Dawes Tyndall and husband were present although Nelle bas recently recovered from a second stroke. She has undergone open heart surgery three times through the years but is presently teaching again. Adelaide Brall Aims is partner in a unique enterprise-a onestop shop for baton twirlers. There seems to be no other shop like it. Berry has a daughter who has traveled nationas a twirler so she is keen on the any as a winter so she is keen on the needs, Susan Womer Almond's greatest experience was teaching in an all black school before integration came to her area. Barbara Rudd Blum is obviously unjoying raising their four adopted children and continuing the need to add rooms onto their home. Carolyn Johnson Lingenfelser wants everyone to help send more men to the moon so her husband will be able to keep his job, We all had a wonderful gab session. Those who returned to campus after 25 years were: Susan Womer Almond. Adelaide Brall Aims, Alice Griesar Blain. Barbara Rudd Blum, Lorraine Goedde Bull, Doris Lippold Burns, Ruthie Meyer Bull, Doris Lippold Burns, Ruthie Meyer Butler, Nellie B. Don't know that this will be every long column as the correspondence has really slowed down since the holidays.

Won't you please drop me a few lines and tell us some naws of yourself, college age children, etc.

I just returned (April) from a five day visit with Mim Sollows Wieland and her visit with mim Sollows wieland and her family in Houston, Texas. Everything was so delightful and they showed me all around the area. The pleasant warm weather was great after our cold N.J. spring and Mim and I just gabbed and gabbed. They are planning an early summer trip to Grand Canyon, Yellow-stone and Disneyland. On my flight home I had a stopover in Atlanta, Ga., so I called Helen Hopkins Mizell. All is well with her. At Christmas she sent pictures of the condominium which Hix built in Ormond Beach, Fla. It is really lovely. They have an apartment down there too which they rent in the winter and use all summer themselves.

Not Wilton is enjoying the Los An-geles area Alumnac Chapter and has visited with D.G. Pate Wilson whose home is next to the foothills of the San Bernardino Mts. D.G. and her husband are both teaching, have four children, and several cats.

Now in their third year of living in Barrington, Ill., Mary Cottinghom Warten and Bob find things going well at Motorola. Bob was recently promoted to Director of Marketing. Kathi is a soph. at Univ. of Denver and loves it there. Son Rob is a h.s. senior and is managing a Texaco Station as auto mechanics is his first love, and Chris is going to small, private, Elgin Academy and likes the personal atmosphere there She is also taking a modeling course, Mary says she would like to try to see what they have to offer middle-aged housewires. Me, too! Husband, Bob, took a five-day backpacking trip into the wilds of Montana for fishing; came back safe, but sore! Mary has been representing their church at a settlement house in Chicago's Lincoln Park area and finds the work very rewarding.

Martha Carr Huddleston and family always seem so active in Virginia Beach. I guess that's the way it is when you have three boys ages 8-15 and are infamily also bought a Glaspar runabout boat and have tried some waterskiing.

A note from Mary-Jone Redman Whittier says she recently "retired" as a teacher's assistant. She found it s little hard with four children and a husband who travels a great deal. A very nice letter was received from Dr. Martin our class sponsor, in response to our invitation to Homecoming. He is now chancellor at Radford College, and Mrs. Martin scot their regrets to those of us who will attend and said how very much they would have liked to share it with us but due to their schedule it was just impossible.

My biggest surprise of late was a long, newsy letter from Bessie Bowman ens in Cody, Wyo. After graduation she and Betsy Peterson Clausen went to Chicago together. They later separated and have lost track of each other. Bessie went on to Cherokec, Iowa to work in the psychology department of a State Mental Hospital, then to Denver, Colo. where she met her husband, Tom, who is a jet pilot. Their moves included Colorado Springs, Colo; Council Bluffs, Iowa; Omaha, Neb., and finally Cody where they bope to remain. They have three children; a daughter 15 and two sons, 13 and 10. While in Omaha, Bessie attended Creighten Univ. carning her teaching certificate in special education. Bessie writes that Cody is a small, very picturesque town where one can do most everything; fish, bunt, camp, golf, swim, ski, etc. She teaches part-time and is a member of AAUW. Tom flys for Husky Oil Co. and they have their own small plane now.

Hi Everybody: Several welcomed letters bring the following news: Although a native-born Virginian, Pattie Pickett Wadsworth has found Charleston, South Carolina to be the place for her family to put down roots. Upon returning to Charleston in 1967, they first had a new house in the suburbs but have since acquired an old three-story house in the historic section which they all love in spite of the inconveniences and maintenance headaches that usually accompany old houses Husband Ben is in the Navy and was promoted to Captain last year. This means he will be transferred by this summer but Pattie hopes they will be able to keep their old house and find someone to live in it until they can return. They have three children: Gregory 14, Andrew 9½, and curly red-haired, six year old Katheryn Elizabeth Walke, Besides the children, Pattie keeps busy with the Navy Wives Club, church activities, a local art gallery, helping with tours in the historic section and last year, even became a licensed realtor and sold fourteen houses.

Pattie says that she last talked to B.

will be forwarded to Ellie.

1 received a note from "Ozzie". She is going to school at American Univer-sity for her Master's in Literature, plus teaching at the same time. How do you do it? I ask this question for one reason; guess what? Yours truly is now teaching kindergarten and can hardly find time to think about fun and games. More about my new career later!

Mary Gale Buchanan Matthai and Parker had a reunion with Stokey

Saunders Addison, Barbara Kowalsyk, and Barbara Strangman Donovan in Baltimore, Mary Gale and Parker are busy building a new home. What with the delay in my writing this letter, they probably have had time to build city". Joyce Stevenson McCrystle has been busy with raising a family, being active in the Garden Club-(Editor of Garden-news-of Maryland). Joyce has two girls. The McCrystles had a winter vacation in the Caribbean. Joyce is oil painting once again, studying with a well-known Baltimore artist, Joyce, it was great hearing from you and please keep up the good work . . .

I do have some sad news to relate.

My father passed away, suddenly, on March 8. Some of you may remember him. I must say that he lived life to its fullest, right up to the end of it.

The Dahls are counting the days until we leave for Caudlewood Lake this summer. We are hoping to take our vacation in London in the fall. My hus band had a delightful business trip to Spain and Africa. As for me, I taught school in Yonkers. I'm retiring after 6 mos. of teaching, because I want to return to school for Master's points, I started teaching during the teachers' strike Do have more news, but forgot about the deadline and must rush this off to

Please keep in touch-we need you the post office-NOW.

Hello, Young Ladjes, Wherever You are! A new chapter has been reorganized in the Franklin-Southampton-Greenville-Suffolk area. It has been named in honor of former governor, Colgate W Darden, Jr. 44 interested alumnae and friends met at the Cypress Cove Country Club in this city on April 1 for a dutch-treat luncheon and our first bus-iness meeting. Many of the alumnae could not be with us due to the hectic Easter holidays but those of you who do live in this area, please come to our second meeting Carolyn Johnson Beale '67 was elected president, yours truly, vice-president, Ann Matthews Pope '50, secretary, Essie Mac Joyner Harrell '46, treasurer and Lynda Lee Thorpe Updike '67, historian. Those present as guests of the chapter were Dr. and Mrs. Grellet C. Simpson, Miss Ann Perin director of alumnae affairs, Myrtle Dean France, vice-president in charge of the chapters (board member) and Betty ies Morie, another board member and a very important member of our class. Those of you who remember Betty will be delighted to know that she is very much interested in MWC and is lovelier now than ever. Those of you who would like to see Betty, she lives in Williamsburg, Myrtle lives in Colonia Beach. I wish to express my deepest gratitude to everyone who came. The list is rather long so I won't take up the space to list each individual by name but if you came, a million thanks. You were responsible for getting the newest chapter on the right track. We were sorry that Mr. and Mrs. Darden were unable to be with us. Mr. Darden has been ill but he reports that he is feeling much better and perhaps we will have them as our guests at a later date.

The only other news I have involves the alumnae fund for 1972, I hope, as your fund chairman for our class, that I can count on each of you for your support. The Alumnae Association needs everyone's support and I am sure that I can depend on each of you in the Class of 1956. You were great when you were students . . . now let's show the college we are still the greatest. A small contribution from all of us would really put our class on top.

More news next time . . . if you writ and tell me your news! I'll keep in touch with you through the alumnae fund. Have a marvelous summer and please stay safe. Perhaps some of you would like to send a contribution to the fund in memory of Nancy Ann Stephenson this year.

Affectionately,

It's time to let you know our class news from across the miles so grab a cup of tea or coffee and we'll spend a few minutes together.

I've spent the whole summer enter-taining relatives and enjoying my family on small trips over the weekends. We usually have our vacations in the wintertime around Christmas. Most of you have taken at least one summer trip somewhere, so let us know where you have been and what you saw.

Some of you have been nice and have already written which we four class agents really appreciate. Hermie Gross Fox was a real jewel and wrote a long note on the form letter I sent to each of you in June. She still likes sports and taught backyard swim classes which were sponsored by Red Cross and PTA and were given in backyard neighborhood pools. She, believe it or not, headed east July 19-August 1. She went to see her sister in New Jersey, to Washington, D.C., to Big Stone Gap, Va. and to Sarasota, Florida to see her in-laws. She wished that she could have visited all her MWC friends on the east coast but just du't have the time. She started out with Jenny and John on a plane a week ahead of her husband, Kerry. She went to a "Fox" Heritage Tour in Big Stone Gap and she and the children drove to Sarasota with her husband's Dad for a couple days visit, then she flew home to San Diego. Hope you have had a marvelous trip and will tell us more about your "Fox" tour as I visited in Big Stone Gap in my early teen years and have been through there on many occasions. Being a Tazewell native makes me interested in Big Stone Gap, anyway, as we occasionally played basketball and football games there . . . way back in the time when I was a high school student! Thank you, Hermie, for your kind remarks ut our efforts as class agents. Yo did a marvelous job as class agent and it's nice to know you approve of us.

Grace Rossien Homelsky has fun riding her horse "Stewball" and boating on Gracio IV. She has two children and finds time to teach nursery school and is active in ORT. Her husband is president of E. Bari Development Corpora tion. They went to Canada for a won-derful ski and snowmobile trip, Her daughters, Ellen and Bari Sue stay very busy with dancing and both play instru ments. Bari-Sue is a cellist and Ellen, a flute player. Grace asks that anyone in the Massapequa Park, New York area get in touch with her. She lives at 133 Thornwood Road.

Connie Crigler is living in Arlington is a member of Capitol Hill Club and Sussex County, Delaware Board of Realtors. She had plans to attend the Repub-lican National Convention in August and also planned to attend the realtor con vention in Hawaii. She sells resort real estate and her company awarded her a 1972 white Cadillac for obtaining a million dollars in sales during last year. If anyone needs a condominium at the beach, get in touch with Connie. Con-gratulations. Connie! We are all proud of you. Let us know about your two trips when you return.

Joan Morgan Bolton has three lively children and lives in Houston, Texas. She plans to take a trip to Colorado and New Mexico this summer. Look up some of your college friends in those areas, Joan. They would be delighted to see

Beverly Lawrence enjoys skiing, tennis, traveling, and reading. She will con tinue her teaching duties as a reading specialist in S. Plainfield, N.J. in the fall. She planned to go on a windjammer for a week this summer. Sue Ayers Warters and Com

(U.S. Navy) husband and two children own a 30 foot sailboat and are all avid sailors. They have plans to do some ocean sailing this summer. Sue is giving piano lessons and is co-director of the chool chorus. These activities plus keeping up with the children and Officers Wives Club keep Sue busy but evidently, happy. Sail around to the east coast sometime, Sue, and we will cheer you from the beach. Send us a picture! I'll keep it for the class scrapbook for our

Running Fox Farm of Stuarts Draft sounds like a fascinating place to be, Claire Williams Parker, I know my sons would love it as they have horse fever at the moment. I just might stop by and see you one day, Claire. Claire teaches tiding and for hobbies she likes to tide, go on fox hunts and swim. She plans foxhound field trials in September and October and later, Claire plans to hiber-nate, but I feel she will be busy with some other activity, don't you? Her hus band is a veterinarian in private practice and he also likes foxhunting. If I told Mark about everything you have written about, Claire, I would have to take him to Running Fox Farm immediately. I will tell him a little at a time to keep him interested until cooler weather. We have friends in Stuart's Draft that I would like to visit. So expect us one day but I will let you know when we can make it . . . if it is o.k. with you. Claire says she lives in a state of busy, happy, confusion. So do I. Mark is always at the barn riding his horse "Midnight Fantasy" and between riding lessons and stable work I rarely ever see him. Michael, age 3, likes to ride, too, but he rides with Mark . . . never alone except on the ten cent kind at the dimestore. Let us hear from you, Claire, and happy fox hunting to you!

Helen LeRoux Marston is beginning a degree in guidance and counseling at St. Michael's College and she plans a trip to England for a professional meeting for her husband who is also a veterinari an. Claire and Helen should get together with their husbands and talk about animals. Helen went to N.Y. for a "show case" of children's theatre in April and called Marbeth Schnare '55. They visited and had lunch. They hadn't seen each other for 18 years. Helen has a daughter, 12, and a son, 10. Each play the violis and went to violin camp this summer. Keep in touch, Helen. We need your news!! Write and tell us about Engl

Among the busiest young ladies in this area is Martha Williams Bell. She has more energy than anyone I know and since I see her often I should know. She is secretary to the headmaster at South-hampton Academy in Courtland where Susan Johnson Gilliette and Carolyn Johnson Beale teach, Carolyn is a graduate and her sister, Susan, graduated in '70, I believe. Those of you who have not seen or heard from Martha Lee since MWC days can write to her as she lives in Capron. Susan and Carolyn live in Joan Fleremeyer Moyer and family are in Singapore but they have plans to leave Singapore and will be in Bangkok after October 1. She has been in the Far East for ten years and other assignments included Manila, Saigon and now her husband, Bill, is working in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Guess we will all have to get out our world maps to see where Joan has been and where she is going! Her letter was a most delightful one. Her son, John, and daughter, Nancy, have traveled with Joan by train to many places of interest and have gone to see Bill while he is away from his family on several occasions. They have been back to the U.S.A. and visited D.C. and Williamsburg and stopped briefly as MWC and she reported that both she and Bill thought that the campus was even more beautiful than it was when we were students there. It is a beautiful spot, Joan, and it is wonderful to stop there and think about the good old days Each tree seems to have some sort of memory, doesn't it? On the way back to Singapore, they flew to Scotland and a train to Londoo, Bill took a month of train rides through Europe and the family hopes to join him for another trip of this sort on their next leave. Joan taught 4th grade last year at the Sing pore American School and the experience was very challenging, Joan reports. Those of you who would enjoy writing to Joan can reach her c/o ESSO, P.O. Box 2824, Singapore. Thank you, Joan, for writing and please keep in touch. I called "Boo" Rountree Duke ooe day in July while I was shopping in Norfolk and she reported the nicest and greatest news ever. She and her husband have adopted another child, a boy, and I can tell you now that if she had been awarded a billion dollars or had a chance to be the most famous person alive she couldn't have been happier! Congratula tions, Boo! The lucky young man came into the Dukes' lives in April and is now eight mouths old, His sister, Susan, adores him and Boo promises to come to see us soon so perhaps I'll get a glimpse of that "miracle" she loves so

I have so many things to do today I shall close for now and continue this letter the next time around. I hope each of you have had a safe, wonderful summer. Don't forget to give to the alumnae fund. Money is desperately needed so let's show the college that we care . each of us!

Happiness is hearing from each of you! Please write and let us know what I am so sorry that I was UNABLE t attend the reunion. I broke my ankle when I was knocked over by a runaway skier and I did not recover as quickly as expected. Then two weeks later my youngest son broke his leg skiing. A few days ago my oldest son broke his foot playing basketball so you see, we are all invalids!

Sandra L. Ball has been promoted to marketing manager in IBM's St. Louis Process and Distribution office. She joined IBM in 1960.

Received a newsy letter from Naomi Johns Bowles. The Bowles are now living in Roanoke. Betty May Roase Ballinger, her husband and four children are now living in Ramsey, N.J. Loi: Prime Liles, Sherwood and their three children are living in Virginia Beach where Sherwood is project manager on construction of the new Hampton Roads Tunnel. Beth Kindley Dunn. and husband, Dave, have four children. Joonna Taylor Higinbotham and husband, Bill, are now living in Suffolk, Virginia. Polly Smith Nelson and Dave have moved in their new house and Polly has gone back to school studying lay therapy. Mergaret Ann Fuller Roass and Bruce write from their new address in I a Grange Ga

This is all for now, Hope to be able to report more after the reunion! Keep the news coming!

Hello,

Thank goodness for Phyllis Bailey Page's phone call as the postman failed to deliver any of your letters. It was delightful talking to her and she does have exciting news! Tom is being transferred to England for 2 to 3 years. He is a civilian with the Dept. of Defense. Phyllis says they have friends over there looking for a suitable house. Their three boys ages 11, 9, and 6 are quite excited. What makes it even nicer for them is that "Grandmother" Bailey will be going, too. They will live in Cheltenham in Gloucestershire-about 90 miles west of London.

For family fun with their camper, they took a northern trip last summer camping the whole time. Their oldest son is in a Rock Band. Phytlis said you have never lived until you've had a rock band practice in your home several times a week. She and Tom helped with a Citizens Advisory Committee at the local high schools concerning a program called "Dialogue", which consists of talk sessions, not lectures, during school

I hope all of you are having a pleasant summer and relaxing vacations. The Chapmans plan to visit the Northwest Territory (Washington State) and to see the Pacific Ocean.

Be prepared for the next issue. If you don't write about your travels you will have to read about mine!!

Hello Again! Received a newsy letter from Audrey Dubersky Doyle. They sold "Born Free" and have ordered a sunfish. They expect to be in Puerto Ricc at least another year. And writes that Jenny is quite the sportswoman, where as Tiffany is extremely feminine and Tom, Jr. is just a wonderful attention lover! Sound very normal! "Kitten" lover! Sound very normal! "Kitten" Swoffin Howard sent news of the New Jersey chapter and some of the girls.

Phyllis Hartlebb Rowley lives in Murray Hills, N.J. now. She has four boys. The family's hobby is golf. And Jone Howard Buchanon has four girls!! Margaret Butterworth Thomas has two little girls and is working as a counselor in high school. Karen Broemmer is still in high school. Karen processing employed as a buyer for Blooming-dale's. She is in the import department constantly, "Fiddle" Graves Myers and Johnny took a cruise in February on the Queen Elizabeth II. "Kitten" and some of the girls planned a bon voyage party. John is vice-president of the Chase Manhatten Bank in ident of the Chase Mannatten Bank in New York City but they live in New Providence, N.J. John, Jr. is in the third grade already and Sally is in nursery school. Thanks "Kitten!"

Mary Fredman Downing and family spent an exciting summer. They traveled to the West Coast, stopping in Wisc. Utah, Col., etc. Allison is in kindergarten and Stefan attends a Montessori school. Glenn has finished his course work at GWU on his Dr's. Mary is taking sewing and guitar lessons! They also had a wonderful Christmas because Glenn is on a do-it-yourself kick and made the children's presents. A dollhouse for Allison and an electric train layout for Stefan. The Downings gave a large Christmas party and JoNeal Hendricks Scully and Cece Bergin Robbins attended.

Note from B.V. Springer-very busy having a fun time decorating her nev spartment. Carol Pridgen Gill passed the latest on Jane Vaught. She is working on her Master's in Early Childhood at the Univ. of R.I., but she is teaching i a Title I program in junior high. Carol has devoted many many hours to the Homecoming program this year, By the way, do you realize our 15th reunion is on the way? Two years pass quickly. 1 don't know about y'all but as I get older they pass quicker.

Ann Brooks Papadatos is moving into a new home. Not too far from school now, no early hours for the bus routine. Jane Tucker Broadbooks was expecting John's folks for Easter. Jon Karl is in kindergarten which gives Jane time to work on the Day School Board. John was a judge on a landscape show in Charlotte and they all went along for some fun. They are planning a lot of boating and camping for this summer. Jane still enjoys her sewing and has now completed her interior decorating Surprise letter from Marne Reese Jones to bring us up to date. She has three girls. Fred has his own building and developing contractor business. Business is great and it has been hard for them to get away but they did manage a trip to New Orleans at Mardi Gras time. Which is the wildest time to go! Marne is not teaching this year so she and Fred spend their time restoring and adding to their old farm home. They live on a three hundred acre farm complete with pony, two ducks and a Labrador! Marne said that Carol Kowalski Reidy and Dick are in New Mexico where they are both working on Master's Degrees at the University. Dick returned from Vietnam in November. They have two boys and a girl. A post-They have two boys and a girl. A post-card came from Elaine Ceccorelli Behling. While on vacation in Florida, she checked out Disney World, saw Barbaro Tuttle Wooster, and spoke to Peggy Bruck Kilby. Let's see-the Trudeaus are fine

Edna is teaching kindergarten still. Tom is working up a storm as usual. don't believe me. Check the rainfall average for Mobile! How does forty inches sound? Ho, hol! And wonder of wonders, we celebrated our fifth wed ding anniversary last week. We'll eatch up with all you old marrieds! "Til next

Hi Everyone.

Louisville is proving to be a lovely place to live, as well as having several MWC people here. I was delighted to find Morgie Lanhom Roberts living about two miles from us! Her husband Barkesdale ("Biff") and their two children Ruth 8, and Fletcher 6, moved back to Louisville three years ago from New Orleans where they lived for two years. Biff is in charge of the Marketing Dept. of the First National Bank here, and Margie keeps busy with the chil-dren, house, and garden. We are going to get together, after the Derby. Margie says her roommate, Beverly Stone Bowers and husband Bob moved to San Francisco in February where he is with Litten Industries. The Bowers have two girls and a boy, ages about 4-9. Her new address in 933 Santa Monica Court, Concord, Calif. 94520, for all of you classmates in California!

This being the small world that it is, one of my neighbors, Jone Fransen Kirn, went to MWC and was in the class of '60 until she transferred to the U. of Ky, after sophomore year. Jane and Bob have two lovely adopted children, Chris 41/2 and Wendy 21/2, and on March 5 gave birth, for the first time, to a baby son. Michael Riley, Jane really has her hands full, but we all get out walking occasionally, including their Airedale and our Yorkie, Jane has a twin sister, Judy, who also went to MWC and they were both on the May Court their freshman

I received a phone call in April from none other than Miss Margaret Hargrove, former Dean of Students, who is a native of Louisville and has come back here to "retire" . . . and work part time. It was such fun talking to her and I hope we can all get together.

Also living in Kentucky is Louise Couch Girvin (class of '62) who wrote a nice letter. They live in Lexington where John is a patent attorney with IBM. In their five years there they have enjoyed the Ky. state parks and the races, and presently are working as sponsors for their high school age sponsors for their high school age church group. At a Republican tea last year, Louise met Noncy Cleaves Blades who graduated from MWC in 1960. The Girvins have three children, ages 6, 4, and 3. Thanks for your letter!

The Alumnae Office forwarded a Christmas card from Koy Sloughter McNett which she had sent to Dr. Cronshore. I'll quote most of it as I'm sure you'll find it quite enlightening, as "Lots of changes have occurred I did: in my life. Last June we took a selfproclaimed and sustained 'sabbatical' and moved to a farm near Sperryville, Va. In the fall, we took a cross-country tour of America (decided we might as well do that too, while we could). Now both of us are trying to write and find some ways to support ourselves without working fulltime.

Before this, however, I became quite involved in the Women's Liberation Movement for a while. Ian and I, last year, switched our roles-1 worked fulltime, at American Scholar, and he, part time, for Change. Sure enough, with his added responsibilities as househusband, Ian began to develop the fa-miliar symptoms of feeling 'put upon and taken for granted. 'Twas a noble experiment, (for my part, I felt I could do little more than my 8 hours at work) and convinced us that neither of us wants to work fulltime again (of course we may still have to). I'm trying to write a feminist appreciation of Anais Nin now." For those of you who are near, Kay's address is Star Rt. 2, Box 160. Etian. Va. 22719, Thanks for your interesting news, Kay.

A letter from Clara Sue Durden
Ashley said she had received a phone call from Dodie Reeder Hruby '59 who lives in Springfield, Va. They have been there two years and Dodie stays busy teaching and keeping up with their three children. I was sad to learn from Clara Sue that her father had passed away on Feb. 26. I'm sure you all join me in extending sympathy to her and her family. It seems I have lots of news of girls in other classes-let's hear from more of you, about yourselves or anyone who went to MWC (no more of U.Va!). My next deadline is September first.

Here I am in sunny Florida, winding up a spring vacation while all the snow melts in Maine. We've enjoyed Disney World, tennis, swimming, and especially getting together with Carolyn Crum Pannu, Pat Scott Peck, and Cary Tilton Doyle '60. News from them will follow. It actually did happen! Lynne Williams, my ex-roommate, and our gal on the go, did dare to visit us during February. And how the snow did come down; an honest to goodness Nor'easter broke loose making it a weekend we'll long remember. Lynne did beautifully on skis and my David, the professional instructor, pronounced her a champ After being with us, Lynne spent a weekend in Texas and she is probably in the Pan-Am skies right now.

A lovely letter from Cindy Scott

Morcock, Toledo, Ohio, catching us up to date: "Woody (my husband) is in the International Division of Dana Corp and travels all over the world. I went with him to the Middle East last year and am going to South America this summer, Our daughter, Debbie, is 10% and is in the 4th grade. She loves horses like her mom. Our son Scott is 7 and in the first grade and a very typical boy. I am a full-time nursing student at To-ledo University. I will finish a year from June . . , I really enjoy it and regret not finishing years ago. We are all ski fans and rent an A-frame at Bayne Mt. for the three big winter months, I still have the horses, my mare, her two year old colt and she is in the foal again." Cindy colt and she is in the foal again added that with her heavy schedule she regretted that her riding was slighted. Her parents spend the winter Ray, Fla. and she enjoys a trip down to relax! Hope we can meet, Cindy, Del Ray is just minutes from Boca Raton where we visit. Many thanks for the letter

I've found that Singh, Carolyn Crum Pannu's husband is just as charming as everyone had said. We had a pleasant ning getting acquainted while David and Singh stuffed themselves with Maine Lobster, in Ft. Lauderdale yet! Best wishes as you settle in that dream home!

Pat Scott Peck drove Carolyn up for a quick lunch and a poolside chat. It was great to see Pat. She is another we missed at reunion, and I really appre schedule to make the visit possible. Carolyn and I were interested in Pat's extensive knowledge of Florida plant life, We wondered if she had been teaching Botany instead of Art these past 11 years. Having taken part of this semester off, she plans to return to her teaching next fall. Pat's infant son Brian and daughter Stacy 2, and Carolyn's son and daughter were also the subject of our conversation as we viewed snapshots. Carolyn also had pictures of Mary Turner Willitt, Henry and family and Vicky Biggers Henshaw, Ed and their two sons, on a Christmas card. Carolyn visited with Ed and Vicky while she visited with Ed and vicky while she lived in Ill. and praised Ed's work as a news telecaster on a Milwaukee TV channel. Vicky is teaching two days a week at Alverno College.

Pat Scott Peck occasionally see: Carolyn Bornett Wright who teaches at North Dade Jr. College in Miami. Her husband is in an insurance related position. Carolyn Cram Pannu men tioned how marvelous the primary and pre-school TV films are that Carolyn Barnett Wright made several years ago. She stated that they are still being shown on the educational TV station in South Florida.

Cory Tilton Doyle '60 had the boys and I over for a day on the beach and what fun we all had. Lee and Greg Hodgkins are now 91/2 and 8 and the Doyles', Henry and Brude, are 6 and 4. A special mention of their very precious daughter Ann, who will be 2 in late August; you need to see her run into the to believe it! Cary plans to visit sister, Lloyd Tilton Backstrom and Art in Powhaten, Va. in August. Their lovely grandmother, Mrs. Cary, still resides at her home in Richmond

Back home and a quick look at the mail finds a letter with news from Judy Saunders Slifer. Judy writes, "Linde Toylor Drustrup and Mickey will be moving to Key West, Fla. this summer as Mickey has been made an Executive Officer on a Submarine. Sue Betzner Machino and Dale are parents of a baby girl. Merrell Katherine, born March 24, 1972, and Robert and I have made definite plans to go to Europe this fall. We are taking a charter flight to Frankfort, Germany and hope to visit with Margarette Kirksey Bir and her husband Jerry. Then head for Paris where (twin) nor Sounders Sunderland Bruce and family are living. We really are excited! Wow, Bon Voyage, Judy, Bob, and all you other happy travelers. Remember. Happiness is hearing

Fondly,

Peggy

Hi Classmates:

from YOU!

I hope you are all enjoying a great summer. As I write this I am reminded of what fun it was to see a few of you in Fredericksburg last year and wish we could get together more often. Connie and Peggy wrote such a great article in the last issue; that really helps to keep us close, in thought, at least. I tease Bill because he reads every word of our MWC news (although he'll never admit it!) And yet the highly stylized, supersophisticated Stanford alumnae papers remain unopened for months!!

Last spring was exciting for me as a one-time dream" did materialize-my first one-man show (excuse the term!) of oil paintings in a local gallery. An invitational reception with a baroque recorder concert started the show off and it was well received in the city which made me very happy.

Toward the end of the summer, Bill Annelise 5, Marguerite 3, and I will be moving on again-this time we are being transferred with Esco Corporation to Lyon, France. We are thrilled! I feel as though everything I have done up to this point has been in preparation for this move-Bill will be Directeur "ge-neral" of Esco Europe-so we are going to travel a lot and have a good time. The girls will go to a French school. We will stay a minimum of three years-but at this point I feel like staying forever.
I would love to hear advice, tips, and aws from any of you, but especially from those gals who are in Europe! Please write to me soon so I'll know where you are. Margrette Kirktley was last seen in Paris-are you still there? Those of you who are planning a trip to Europe—please put Lyon on your itinerary and come for a visit-I love company!

I regret having no news but my own but still appreciate the opportunity to write for our class.

I received a very nice note from Sandy Wolters Julifs who will soon be moving to Rochelle, Illinois where her husband. Harold will be assistant field superintendent for Del Monte, Sandy two sons, David, 91/2 and Steven 5 The Jylifs have been living in Stevens Point, Wisconsin for the past five years, during which time Sandy helped organize and run a Family Planning Service. Her address after May 22 will be Route 2. Rochelle, Ill. 61068, Welcome to nois, Sandy, and thank you for your note. Let's hear from some more classmates! Janie Riles Wamsley

Our tenth-what a thrill to see classmates again and renew friendships. As a matter of fact, it was amazing how you matter of fact, it was amazing now you could "take right up" where you left off—ten years ago. We had such a grand turnout—forty-four girls—many, many with husbands came to Reunion Weekend. The Friday night party at Spotts-wood (Alumnae House) was the first official festivity of homecoming.

Kokki Perry Aydlotte and husband Ron were there, Kakki is a physical education supervisor in Richmond Schools, while Ron is employed at Sears. They have a six year old son Phillip. Por non Burrus came from North Carolina. Pat said she is busy caring for her family, which includes a new daughter. Marcia Kirstein Fitzmaurice came from Dallas, Texas. Ed, her husband, is a pilot for Braniff Airlines and they have two beautiful children-Carey 4, and Evan, a year. Marcia had sent a nice note a pictures of the children at Christmas. From all my map measuring, Marcia came the farthest to Homecoming. Congratulations Marcia.

Myrtle Lee Dean France came for the weekend and spent Saturday represent-ing our class on the MWC Alumnae Board. She is a part-time research math ematician for the Naval Weapons Lab and the rest of the time cares for daughters Rebecca and Mary Scott, one year. Bob and Sue Grandy Gibsoo came from Norfolk. Sue taught Spanish on the school level after graduation and now is a "full time homemaker" for Anne age 7 and Katherine age 3. Ann Huml and husband Jerry are stationed at Quantico. Jerry is a m and will attend U.Va. on the USMC's Master's Degree program for one year. Ann and Jerry have three children, Dina 9, Corine 7 and Taz 19 months. Billy and Barbara Schwab Jester were at the party. Billy has his Ph.D. and Barbara was a computer programmer until 1966 and now is busy raising William, Jr., 4 yrs old and Nicole, 2 years old. Be said the family spent some time in South Africa and now is settling in Charlottes-Va. Sue Katz Lieberman and hus band Ed attended the Friday night reception. Ed received his Medical Degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Sue taught elementary school from 1965 to 1968 and is now a "full time housewife" to James age 3 and Meg Catherine, 11 months. Emily Lewis came down from Washington, D.C. She is working in the Methadone Maintenance Program. Emily is just back from ten months in Mexico and South America months in mexico and South America studying group work and Spanish. From New Jersey came Emily's room-mate, Jane Wolshe McCracken, who married Jay McCracken, III. Jane worked for the Civil Service Commi sion and then taught kindergarten, Jane and Jay have three daughters; Kelly, 7½ years, Sarah, 5 years, and Mary Catherine, 8 mos. Frances Rowell was there also. She is a curriculum development specialist and a representative for the Control Data Career Entry Institute. Betsy Williams Brothers and Marcia Ariott Wooster attended with their hus bands. Did not get a chance to speak with them. If you have time, drop a note and let us know exactly what you are doing. My old suitemate Joan Akers Rothgeb and husband Eddie were in time for the Friday night party. Joan is working towards her Master's Degree in Education while Eddie is an elementary school principal. They have two children Lee age 2 and Katherine 11 months Josn had a picture of her roommate Mory Lott Hagland and hubbie David mand daughter Ashley, age 18 months:

Mary looks so good and the Haglunds are settling now in Colorado. Ethel Hill. my roommate, flew down from New York City and attended the party and luncheon. Ethel is vice president of Shearson, Hammill and Co. of N.Y. and does some traveling with her job. Quite a busy lady, Betsy Corper Cole and hus band were there. Sorry not to have seen von Saturday Betsy. My thanks to Bonnie Platt Larson, who with husband Stu, attended the party and helped me compile names of people who attended. Saturday morning Morilyn Schulmon Rafel, Kathleen Sprenkle Lisagor, Corolyn Schultz Davidson and myself drove up to Fredericksburg. Chancellor Simp son spoke on "MWC-Tomorrow". We went to Chancellor Simpson's luncheon at his lovely home, Brompton, He per-sonally greeted all homecoming MWC Alumnae It was an outdoor buffet on the lawn-you know how pretty Mary Washington is in the spring. We saw Morilyn Smith Edmunds, who came down from New Jersey, Marilyn is a "retired school teacher" and cares for her two sons Richard 8 and Scott 5 Also we saw Patsy Barclift McDermatt with her husband and son David 6 years. Patsy announced that the McDermatts have adopted a little girl and she is now four months old. Congratulations, Patsy. Betty Richie Padfield and Noncy Check Mitchell registered Saturday also. Betty is working and plans a Florida trip this summer with her husband and children to see Disney World. Nancy and husd Bob have three children-Robert 5, Thomas, 6 and Amy, 4 years. Bob received his LL,B, from Washington & Lee in 1965, Sur Howland Waldis and Noney Hull Pycik came down from New Jersey to see everyone. Sue's husband Richard is Assistant Director of the Budget for the Dept, of Higher Education for N.J. They have two boys ages 7 and 4. Sue was a Psychometrist for the Federal Government; now she is a busy housewife. Nancy, please write and let us know what you are doing.

Our class officially had its reunion later that afternoon. Sherry Burton was there. She was down with Mary Deoton Brosseau. Sherry seems to be busy, also, with offices in Philadelphia and the D.C. area. Sally Rambo Eddy drove down from New Jersey-also down from that area was Koy Mizell Heppinstill. Kay tively working with Sue Kotz Lieberman, Marilyn Smith Edmunds and Jone Walshe McCracken to form an MWC Chapter in Southern Jersey. Anybody in the area is encouraged to give Kay a call.

Sally lives in Valley Forge, Pennsyl-vanis with husband Alfred Eddy, Jr. Sally works as a bacteriologist while Alfred is a virologist for Merch, Sharp and Dohme, which is a division of Merch and Co. Georgianne Maloy Hull, Millie Hunt

Jennings and Aney Melton Massie were at that four o'clock reunion. Georgianne received a Master's from Madison in 1971 and is now a Guidance Counselorshe has one child. Aney taught school after graduation and "retired" to care for her children; Aney age 4 and Tom age 2. Her husband Tom, Sr. owns and anages their farm. Millie married W.H Jennings who is now a pharmacist and owner of a drug concern—they have 2 sons; Hugh 3½ and Nathan 2 years. Millie taught elementary school and is now a busy homemaker.

Mary Sue Miller McDonald come from Staunton. She received her Master's in Education from U. of Mississippi in 1968 and is teaching chemistry and physical science. Mary Sue's husband in an elementary school principal, and they have one son, Miller, age 2 and are expecting another child this summer.

Foye Herlow Johnson and husband Dennis were down from College Park, Maryland, Dennis works for the GSA; they have 2 children-Michael. 31/4 who goes to nursery school and Bonnie, who is "Momma's helper." Faye received her MA in American Studies in 1969 from the University of Maryland, The Johnsons live in a large old home in Colleg

Vi Arnold Severs came from Tampa Florida, She and husband Hugh were a the Friday night party and really en-joyed being in Virginia again. Hugh was "up North" while studying in the D.C. area. Liz Kennedy Thomas was at the 4:00 reunion. She and her husband live in Richmond, where Liz Ann is a hom maker for their three children Beth, 71/2 Hunter, 514, and Catherine, 214, and is busy in Junior League work. Donne Stephens Body now lives in Fredericks burg and has been teaching in Culpeper since Angust '71 Lillian Ann Dix Smith had car trou ble on the way Saturday morning but made the reunion. She is teaching home economics in Tappahannock, Va. and received her M.S. from VPI in 1965. Lillian Ann's husband Curtis is a senior commercial representative for VEPCO. Moggie Dean is teaching elementary school music in Prince George's County Maryland. Maggie received her Master's in Education from Lynchburg College in 1969.

Helen Alexion James married Gus James If and they live with their two daughters Mary Margaret age 6 and Nicole age 4, in Virginia Beach, Va. Her husband Gus is an attorney with Master's in Taxation. Becky Orr Conlon was down from Suitland, Maryland, Becky, please let me know what you are

From the class reunion in Randolph everyone dispersed for supper. The Alumnae Association sponsored a banquet at the Holiday Inn.

For some quick observations around campus—the new physical education building is Goolrick Hall and is located on the corner of Route I next to Dunont. The reservoir is gone and in its place is a new dormitory. The students themselves seem to be serious about academics and "current social problems and seem to be proud about Phi Bets Kappa coming to MWC.

Some things are gone though: dress codes, sit down meals, guest and sign-out cards, and head residents. Quite a change in Administration, faculty and student attitudes since we graduated. Seeing the college again was grand but seeing old acquaintances and friends was the best part of Reunion '62 in '72.

Fondly.

P.S. the Alumnae Association compiled and printed an anniversary booklet from Alumnae Office files and questionnaires returned by members of the class. They are $.50 and can be purchased from the Alumnae Office, Box 1315 College Station, Fredericksburg.

The Alumnoe Office received the following note:

In the way of news-I presently ha three children-Michael, 6 yrs; Lisa, 4 years and Tracy, 10 months. The above address change is because of my hus-band's new position in Vineland as Controller of Citizens Ban Corps, a bank holding company. As for me, at present, just plain homemaker. Here it is deadline time again and I'm happy to report the news from some classmates who have been silent for a long time. Alice Eckenrode Alkire sent a newsy letter from Silver Spring, Md, where she and Bill are living with their two girls, Susan (4) and Pam (2). Bill completed his MSEE last June at George Washington U. and is still employed by Aero-Geo-Astro in Cotlege Park, Md. Alice says she keeps busy with the usual "suburban-mother activities" and loves it. As for her other news, Alice says she frequently sees Mary Russell who lives in Greenbelt, Md, and teaches brain damaged children. Last October Mary brought Janie Bateman for dinner to Alice's. Janie, who lives in Houston Tex had been in Philadelphia, Pa. for a dieticians convention. Alice's roommate, Sally Sutherland, teaches P.Ed. in the Richmond area and apparently is raising horses and dogs at her own place in her spare time. Anne Rodwoy Atchley and husband Kris welcomed their third son recently in Nairobi. Kenya where they are stationed with the State Dept. The Alkires saw Cindy Whitaker Finnelly, Bob and Erin last summer as they passed through Kennelon, N.J. on their way to New Hampshire. Heather Finnelly joined the family after the visit so now Cindy has two little ones to keep her busy. Mary Alice Christmas Richardson and Wayne are in Succa nna, N.J. where he is with IBM. Later this year they will be moving with their two children. Edward and Heather, to North Dakota. Elaine Calvani Clarke is still in Newark, N.J. They have an eight year old son and were expecting their second child this spring. Alice, Thanks so much for writing and please do let us hear from you again.

Brownfield Townsend who is now Athens, Ga. working on a Master's in Child and Family Development with the help of a scholarship for graduate study awarded her by the MWC Alumnae from the Chancellor's Fund, Linda asked me to extend her thanks and appreciation for not only the financial help but also the vote of confidence. She is currently a graduate assistant, doing some teaching and also consulting for several day care centers and participates in some interesting workshops and conferences. Last summer Linda returned to Bonn, Germany where she had lived from '67-'69 and to describe her trip I'll quote from her letter, "I stayed with some German friends. It was great to be back on the Rhein again, to speak German, to see old friends and to finally get back to my favorite hairdresser after two years of wishful thinking! I also made an interesting trip to a 'Therapeutic Community' for young (18-36) neurotics in Holiand for two days. I would have asked to stay on & work there, I was so impressed, if I could only have spoken Dutch!" Linda's children, Jon (9) and Kelly (5) seem to love Georgia and keep Linda busy with their various activities, She would love to see or hear from anyone in her area and she would also like to know if anyone knows the whereabouts of Toni Hensbrough O'Brien? Linda's address is 145 Morningview Circle, Athens, Ga. 30601 Thanks for taking time from your busy schedule to write, Linda,

Had another long letter from Linda

A late Christmas letter from Linde Morrison Douglas revealed that she and Mark (1) managed to get to Okinawa for a month to spend Christmas with Dave, Linda is living in Woodbridge with mother for the rest of Dave's overseas tour and she is keeping busy serving on the MWC Student-Alumnae Com-mittee among other things. Do keep in touch, Linda, and thanks for writing. Cathy Foster Wilde and Hal welcomed their new son in March Cathy says that Susan Woodward Kilborn and her son, David, had come for a day's visit recently. Cathy's new son is also David; Sara is 3.

After ten years I finally heard from Elizabeth "Ibby" LeSueur Carter whose husband, Stuart, is a lawyer in Virginia Beach where they have lived for the past five years. They have one child, Stuart, Jr. (5), and their address is 833 Guilford Court, Virginia Beach 23462, In January the Carters spent a week in Mexico City and then went to a convention i Houston, Tex. where they managed to get together with Kothy Cole Carmichael. Ben and their son who came up from San Antonio, Tex. Ben is an Army doctor and they have since been transferred to Georgia. Ibby also was interested in contacting Jane Abshear wondered if anyone has her ad-

One last bit of news from Karen Vandevanter Chapman who wrote that Joel and Nancy Slonim Aronic now have two hove with the arrival of Daniel Karen and Nancy keen in touch regularly and both have contacted Betty Ash Dubbauld since she moved to their area. That's about it for this issue. Happy summer and please write!

Spring greetings! There are many names in the news this issue, so reading should be fun. Judy Finger Bradley writes that she is doing some teacher's aide work at Rosewood, the Maryland State Hospital for the Mentally Retarded. She and husband, Chris, were inning a trip to England in early May Judy writes that Gweyn Thomes had visited her for a birthday celebration in January. Gweyn teaches, owns pro perty in Ocean City for the summer and in the mountains for the winter and travels between them in a great little camper. The former Susie Solf also came for Judy's birthday bringing her baby, Zafra. Susie lives in D.C., does some theatre work, and dabbles in arts and crafts. Let us know your married name Susie.

Another letter arrived from Christine Scheuring Otey with lots of news. Christine, husband Bob and two daughters, Kelly, age 4 and Kimberly, 8 months, live in Wichita, Kansas. Christine is a bacteriologist and prologist in a local bosnital Rob is assistant to the veterinarian at the new zoo in Wichita and is also a full-time student. His schooling was interrupted when he was called back into active duty. Christine also raises and trains miniature poodles

Christine sent news of other '64 classmates. Pat MacKenzie is working for AAA and has taken several trips to Europe. Kotherine Farrell Rubach expecting a baby soon. She lives in Va Beach, Carol Anderson Hoffman and husband Donald live in Bowie, Md. and have five children. Lani Cayor is married to Henry Clark and has two children Porty Jones is married to George Schulman and lives in Santa Ana Heights, Calif. They have two sons. Anne Stepler is married to a de Lester Godfrey. She is administrative assistant for the C&P Telephone Co. Carol Kimble Finn '61 and husband Russell live in Colorado Springs and have two children.

Linda Reading Pullen sent some news also. She and Barry are expecting second child in November, First child, Anne, is now three. Linda write that Morgaret Roe Salley came to visit in March, Margaret has a part-time job as a dentist's assistant and enjoys her work, Margaret's husband Jack is going to law school at night, five nights a week and will finish school in June. They live Wilmington, Del. and Jack commutes to Philadelphia to school. From Linda and Margaret's visit comes the following news. Anne Ergenbright Mathis and Ed, who live in New Orleans, are expecting their first child soon. Anne Liedy Lynch and Bob moved to Phoenix, Ariz. in April Bob will join a private law firm

Lindo Jones Peterson and Fred who live in Princeton, N.J. where Fred is in graduate school, plan to move in June after Fred finishes his final year. He has gotten a job at the U. of Maryland, and they have bought a house in College Park, Md. Jean Wacker Dolan has moved to the same subdivision in which Linda lives, Jean worked for Ciba Chemicals for six years before retiring to take care of her daughter who is now two. Her husband is now working for Squibb Chemical Co. and that firm has moved their cornorate headquarters to Trenton N.J. from New

You'll notice from the address of this column that we have moved-tempor-We sold our house in Warsaw right arily out from under us and so are renting a house in the village of Sharps until the house we are building is completed. That house is also in Sharps and on the Rappahannock River. The question now is, when will our house be finished. It has already been eight months in the building and there is at least another month's work in sight. So we're camping out or feel like we are anyway.

Thanks to Christine Otey Scheuring I received the following news: Shoror Belknop is a librarian at U.Va, Lono Carpal Clark and Henry have two children. Mona Landous Steger is assistant for the Office Chief of Legislative Lie son, Lindo Worden Dinsmore finished at the University of California and taught school for a while. She and Robert have two children. I was delighted to get such a newsy letter from my good friend Susan Rowe Buntag. She and her husband Dave live in Melrose, Massachusetts with Nicole and Derek, their two children. Sue has been teaching for four years now and finds it very convenient to have both of her children attend the school where she teaches. She's attending night school and plans to finish her Master's Degree in summer school. Sue says that her college days seem so far away to her that she can't remember not being a family woman. Ironically, I can't re-member her as anything but my zany friend, who was always playing tricks on me. I'm so pleased that her life is so full and rewarding

Sue's husband, David, is equally busy it seems, as a successful stockbroker with Dean Witten. He and Sue both work diligently remodeling the old house they bought. They both skate regularly with the children, and since David was a hockey player at Dart-mouth, the children are rapidly becoming proficient skaters.

Sue would like to hear from Sue Meyer and Ann Carney, and so would I. She also wants to know where Som Page Cosby Mayo is located in Mass, and if it's true that Janet Bogg is also in the area. How about writing me gals?

If you'll pardon my bragging about my own husband, he was recently promy own nuscand, ne was recently pro-moted to vice-president at Roanoke's largest bank, He's quite young for this position, and I'm very proud of his success. Our girls, Paige 3½, and Elizasuccess. Our giris, a way-beth 1½, keep us both busy.

reading your class news really ought to write me (or another class agent) so You're our only source of news.

Hi Giris:

Hi Giris:

As you observed in the statistics column, Hope Hemmersley was married in February to Vincent Potts. From a note on the announcement I learned that "Vin" is with American Cyanamide Corporation. Hope has been Executive Secretary to the Vice President of Tiffany's for the past three years. Following her marriage, she moved to 212 Lafavette Road, Hampton, N.H. as tenant-caretaker to the General Moultrie house-museum dating back to 1735 Best wishes, Hope. Your new life sounds both interesting and exciting.

I also had a note from Patricia Moore Farmer. It sounds as if Patty has had a chance to travel: "My husband and I have been living in Switzerland for the past 10 months where Mike is a research assistant at IMEDE, a European business school located in Lauconne We'll be returning to the States this summer when Mike will return to Harvard Business School to obtain his Doctorate in Business Administration," Thank you for letting us hear from you. Patty. l visited with Jean Wocker Dolan about a month ago. She has just moved from Maplewood, N.J. to Lawrence, N.J. where the Dolans have bought a house Jeanic and her husband have a little girl, Jennifer, who was 2 in April She and our Lorena enjoyed being together. The Sayers' summer house in Newport, R.I. will be on Operation Clap-board's Tour of historic houses this summer, so if you're planning to be in Newport on August 5th do include the house tour in your plans.

Why not send me a post card this summer? I do love to hear from you and news does swell the size of the column.

Happy glorious spring! There's some-thing to this "newness of life" time, Somehow I always perk up when I see the buds bursting forth on the barren trees and temperatures rising into beau-tiful balmy days. This is the time to go out into a grassy bank and commune with nature-and with your old friends from MWCI Some of you have already done just that. Caroline Ridgely Hayden writes that Corol Mastrenards Laubagh has a 7 month old son, Glenn, She and her asband, who is interning at a private hospital, live in Michigan. Our local chapter meetings provide a mini-reunion for our classmates. At one of the meetings Mr. Michael Houston and Ann Perinchief spoke about the college going co-ed and sepa-rating from U.Va. This program drew Bersy Johnson Rule, who was expecting in February, Jone Lanham, Cheryl Keetzel '68, and Susan Church Dillon '67. Ginny Lucas Shearin was leading the chapter, but she "retired" in order to have a second baby, due in September Bonnie Romsey Kerr picked up the gavel, coming naturally after being our student body president back Bonnic, husband and two children just moved here, and in the nick of time! Since I had a pencil in hand as class agent, I just pushed it a little further and became secretary of the chapter, Susan is veep, and Eleonor Pollock treasurer.

Recently the Armstrong twins, Ethel and Edna, '63 spoke to a group of us about interior decorating. They had a beautiful presentation, putting us all in the mood to redo our whole house! They travel world-wide gathering materials for their own business, and have landed many nice contracts in D.C. and Rehoheth Beach. Among those on hand to see them again were members of our class: Frances Grafton, Shoron Belknap.

Edno Knight Roberts and Verno Corlson. If any of you know the address of Nancy Lou Moore, please send it to us-She is one of the people we've lost track of unfortunately.

Hi! Sorry I missed the January 5th gadine. Lisa was sick all during Christms and i was quite busy.

Had a Christmas card from Janie wright Kirkeby. She sent a cute picture of 16 month old Kristy who looks very much like Janie. Janie writes that she is working part-time in a hospital in Ft. Landerdale, Fla.

Lynn Bard Jablonsky writes from Newtown, Conn. (which is on Rt 84 with David and baby Mary Susan. Got a letter from Linda Patterson writes: "Last October (1970) my husband was accepted by the FBI and went to Washington, D.C. for agent training. Then in February he got his first year-old son Wade and I flew up after he had found an apartment, and in March (1971) our second little boy, Louis, was born. We love Minnesota. We had a marvelous summer motoreveling all over the state with friends. Austin's work as an FBI agent is exnot nearly as dangerous as the TV program shows!" Linda asks for those of you living in the Minneapolis area to please contact

Also received a newsy letter from Anne Connell Sneed who lives in Cayce, S.C. She and Corol Dunton Hill had a March reunion with their sophomore year suitemates, Sondro Clay Colper and Cheryl Gonzoles Sturm. Anne writes:

"Carol and John and Lee and I have kept in touch and visit back and forth whenever possible as have Cheryl, Pete, Sandra, and Tom; but we four "girls haven't all been together in ten years. Carol and John drove up from Atlanta, where both work, and stayed with us. Cheryl and Pete traveled from Richnond to Sumpter, S.C., where Tom and Sandra are stationed at Shaw AFB, then the four of them drove to Colum Men the four of them drove to Columba. Needless-to-say, we all had a grand time remembering our MWC days and tilling about our lives now. Everyone had pictures of homes and children (Cheryl has Robert 7 and Anne 5; Smdra—Clay 4 and Carrie 1; me—Lee-Anne 4 months) to show.

We hope to meet again next year if we nope to meet again next year if our various locations permit. The other couples will probably stay put, but Lee and I won't be in the same place. He recipes his Master's this May from USC 1

Thanks very much to Linda and Anne for their news.

Last October my high school (Granby Morfolk) class had its tenth reunion Many MWC girls were there. Ellen Jones Tompkins and husband John live in Newport News where Ellen is teaching high school, Ellen looks terrifie! Carolyn connett Barry was there with husband Dick who was recently made a partner in his law firm. I also saw Jon Gourley Gates '66. She and Jim have a son, Jamie, 2, and are expecting another in Lisa and I spent ten days in Norfolk Siting my parents over Easter. We left list comprehensive examination.

While in Norfolk I saw Judy Stran white in Norfolk I saw Judy Straw-hidge Dickinson (who is absolutely kinny!) and daughter Heather who is 9 nonths old, Judy looks wonderful and lighther is the image of her dud. Judy td I and children went to Carolyn Kennett Barry's where we saw Mary Lou Skeerer McDaniel. Carolyn has recently modernized her kitchen and added a new family room to her home. Carolyn is quite busy teaching school part-time and is also active in the King's Daughters and the Norfolk Society of Arts and Sciences. Mary Lou, who is expecting her first child in June, results "Esting" from teaching She and cently "retired" from teaching. She and Steve are making plans to build a home in Norfolk.

I am still "teaching" my two nursery school classes, but am looking forward to a summer rest. The next deadline is Sep tember 1st-let me hear from you! If any of you are in the D.C. area over the summer please give me a call!

It must have been an uneventful winter according to the mail we didn't get this time. Let's shape up and write! Nancy Alfard Hernandez cent a chort note telling of their new house in Md. Sure would like to hear more about it, Nancy.

Nancy.

I talked to Ryon Stewart Davis on her birthday in April. What a call—all the way from Fla. to Wash. State. We couldn't help discussing old times, and Ryan sounds the same as ever.
We're both planning ahead to go to our 10th reunion, and hope the rest of you will, too. Ryan had the news that she is our new alumnae representative, which means that she is in charge of collecting funds. Better start saving your pennies, so we can all make a contribution this

We had an enjoyable overnight visit from Wayne and Mary Wright Day during their recent whirlwind tour of Florida. They flew down to Tampa to visit Wayne's sister, and ended up seeing everything from Disney World to Ma-nineland. By the time they got to our house, they were both ready to return to their lovely Md. home and their new

Mary had a bit of news. She said that Linde Mitchell Squires and husband had moved to Towson, Md., and Mary and Wayne had seen them recently,

This is being written on the patio of my parents' new waterfront home here in Jacksonville, while watching Ken and Scott catch crabs off the dock. What a life!

Well I could fill several more nar graphs writing about my fat adorai Baby Brett and his big brother, but I'll refrain this time Now, let's have some news from

v'all! Ginny

I'm afraid this will be short as I have received little news to pass on. Being here in Georgia, I have lost personal contact with many people. I suppose that I'll have to do some contacting via

I did receive a late Christmas letter from Louise Gurley Berger. Louise was quite busy last year teaching 8th grade quite busy last year teaching 8th grade math at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Upon finishing the school year, she returned to Arlington, Va. two weeks before the birth of her daughter, Joyce Allison, All of this was done while Roger was serving in Japan. Louise reported that Roger was due home in February. The Bergers should be well settled in Pennsylvania by now where Roger will be entering graduate school at Penn State. Louise hopes to find another teaching position

The last week in February found me The last week in February roung me back in Woodbridge, Va. attending the wedding of Kop Cooper (Kay attended MWC from 1965-1967). She was wed to Richard Burns, a former Marine and future law student. They are now living on the outskirts of Philadelphia as Rich will attend Villanova. Several MWC'ers will attend Villandova. Several MWC'ers were at the wedding including Cerol Simmons vander Keift '68, who flew in from Chicago. Carol is busy these days looking after son Mike, and a new house. Other MWC'ers attending were Timo Pollmer Gimmill '67, Corolec Prosise Taylor, and Laurie Steinmeyer That's about all, I hope to have more news next time. Have a nice summer!!

Sorry that I missed the deadline for the last issue. At Christmas it seemed that every eard we received from an bringing a spring delivery! However, oringing a spring denvery: nowever, so far only one announcement—Eileen Godderd Albrigo and Dr. John had a boy, Todd, in January. They also own a new home. It seems like new things come in pairs! Also, Kothy Goddard Moss and Tom had a beautiful boy, Joseph, last summer-so now they have one of each! Perfect planning! Leave it to a scientist!

We have some news in a little dif-ferent light. Please notice our change of address. We just bought a home about 10 min, from where we are now; so at this point we are in the midst of boxes and shredded newspaper. Great fun! The weather here is becoming spring-like and I can't help remembering what fun we had last year at the fifth reunion.

There is a bit of news from the Fultz family, Many of you didn't know we've been living in the Chicago area for four years now and love it. John came here for "one year only," for his internship and we've remained here through our Army duty. John is now in his internal Army duty, John is now in his internal medicine residency with Northwestern. We have two children, Kristin Anne (born August 7, 1968) and John McDowell, 111, "Jay" (born August 26, 1971). They're both adorable, of course, and there's always something new and exciting happening around here.

There are bound to be many '66ers either here or passing through the Chica-go area, and we'd love to see them! I hope I'm not too late to get a word in this time!

Sincerely. Peggy Beeler Fultz

Also, I have a criticism of the class

Also, I have a criticism of the class notes. Why don't women who are down and out write in about themselves. So much of the same, beautiful children, houses and husbands. A few anti-success stories would add to the reality of the news and may help other individual feel freer to contribute (share) news about themselves.

As for me, the last five years have been interesting and demanding. We've been living in the Bay Area for three years and have a small apartment at the foot of Nob Hill in San Francisco, My husband Tim writes for a small newspaper but most of all wants to get over a hump and finish writing a long stand-ing book. We have a little boy, Devin, with whom I spend most of my time. Our chief activity is combing the streets of San Francisco, planning trips to the Sierras that manage to fall through at the last moment. San F. is a very beautiful, ugly, and confusing city.

Cheers!

I hope to make up for my lack of news last time by filling you all in on our class reunion. This will be my last writing as class agent; please direct younews from now on to: Susan Church Dillon

3316 Woodburn Village Drive, Apt. Annandale, Va. 22030

I've enjoyed being a class agent the past five years, and really appreciate those of you who have contributed to the column. As you can see by my new address, Murray, Mart and I are now living, of all places, in Fredericksburg! In March Murray got a transfer to Ft. Belvoir, Va. (about 35 miles up the road), so with only a few months left in the Army, we've bought a house right across from the college tennis courts. We're enjoying life very much here, and hope to settle in Fredericksburg permanently. I will be teaching eighth grade English here this fall, and Murray will finally begin civil-ian law practice. Before we settle down as "old" residents we'll be taking off for as "old" residents we'll be taking off for a month in Europe (minus babyl) from May 15-June 15. After that time, you know where we are, so stop by anytime you're in Fredericksburg to say hello. News comes first of Jone Walpe Stillmar, who was kind enough to send along a memo before the Alumnae Weekend, Jane and Ben. were married of Checkles 250. on October 23rd last year. We enjoyed meeting Ben very much; he is working for the Atomic Energy Commission now that he's out of the Navy. Jane con-tinues to work for C&P Telephone; in their spare time they go kyacking. Jane had news of Fran Howard, who is had news of Fran Howard, who is working as an assistant buyer at Wood-ward & Lothrup in D.C. She also told us that Susan Wolf Shults has just had a baby. Sue and Porter will be moving to Oklahoma University sometime this summer for him to get his Master's in Economics. Another person Jane menand Emory live in Dover, New Hamp-shire, where he is an English professor and she is taking grad, courses in art. There was a gnod turnout for our class at the annual luncheon at Bromp-

ton. We enjoyed seeing Susie Church Dillon and meeting husband John; their little girl, Meghan, is over a year old now. John is commercial supervisor for C&P Telephone. JuJu Waechter Taylor and John came all the way from Jacksonville, Fla. for the weekend, leaving the little one behind. Also coming a long way, from Ft. Benning, Ga., were Ellie Frith Peters, husband Mike, and month old daughter Rebecca, who is precious. Their son wasn't along but we enjoyed seeing the three family members much. Saturday evening Mike and Ellie had dinner with Jone Ownby Wells and Jim in Richmond, Jane teaches French at St. Catherine's School and Jim is a banker; they have a little girl. Mortha Copenhaver Rocco had travelled from Ohio; she didn't bring son Jeffrey and husband Tony this time. Tony is very busy running his own interior decorating business. Also we enjoyed seeing Goyle Atwood Channel; she and Warren are busy every day of the week with the Channel Furniture business. Lucy Johns Swartz was also there; I'm sorry I didn't get to talk with you more, Lucy!

I'm sorry more of you couldn't make it to the cocktail party Friday evening. It probably wasn't the most convenient time to have one, but the schedule Saturday wouldn't permit it. Dr. and Mrs. Glover attended, we were very pleased they could come, with four children and exams coming up soon. Sherrie Lee Brindle and Paul and Sue Penningron Leach and husband Steve were there. My apologies, Suc, I kept introducing you as Sue Beach instead of Leach! Would like to see your son when you're down in this area visiting your parents. Ann Perinchief broke the news at the party that she'll be attending William & Mary School of Law this fall and thus leaving as Director of Alumnac Affairs. Many thanks for your excellent job and patience in waiting for those deadlines in the Alumnae Office, Ann! We attended the party Friday evening at Spotswood Alumnae House. Flossie Reese was there from Lynchburg. enjoyed seeing Lou Coseio Cralle and later meeting her husband George. I'll be teaching with her husband at the same school next year, although he'll, naturally, be in math as Lou is. Bardahl Tynes Bishop and Judy Yotes Hardy were there, Bardahl is teaching at a private school in Lawrenceville and has two children, Jack Hardy has completed Virginia Law School and they will be heading out to the state of California soon. Judy told me that Susan Woiff Burdette and Gary are expecting their second child; Samantha is about three years old now

At the class reunion there were quite a few in attendance, I wish I could have talked with everyone! Laura Griffin is teaching in Richmond now, having moved from Massachusetts. Mory Mas Blonchard Harris and Craig are living in Richmond; she is teaching and Craig is a practicing attorney for Handley, Taylor, and Glass. Betty Borker Price attended the get-together while Sheet was on the tennis courts: I'm sorry I didn't meet him! Elise Moore Strickland and husband Don live right in New York City but made it down for the weekend. I was happy to see Helen Calloham Hutter and to meet her husband Chris. They live in Lynchburg where Chris is in the savings and loan business; glad you all came down, but next time bring your

Others at the reunion were: Carolyn Cowin, Mary Sadler Reed, Susan Downs Ellerbrake, Gail Balderson Dise & hus-band, Mory Beth Bush Dore and husband, and Cheryl Tate Duke, who's been a dear about sending in news.

See you all at the Tenth Reunion;

Reunion has come and gone . . . and I find myself wishing I had had more time to spend with the thirty or so classmates who were here. Jeanne has told you about them, so I will just add what other news I have heard.

Quite by accident (It's a small world!) I met Maggie Knight's father in Roanoke June. He told me that she has been in Greece since February (and will stay until early next year), doing creative writing. I'm sure she would love to hear from you, Her address: Miss Margaret Knight, I KONIOV 6, NEA SMIRNI, Athens, Greece,

On June 3rd Becky DuVal was ma ried to Edward H. Shelton. They have bought a farm outside Fredericksburg. Eddie is a self-employed farrier; Becky is teaching at The New School, Inc. in Fredericksburg.

Betty Fitzhugh is teaching second grade at Grafton Village Elementary School in Stafford County and lives in Fredericksburg. I had a note from Ann Wilkerson Williams, They are now in Seattle, Wash ington, where John is in the manage-ment-trainee program at PACCAR, Inc. Come September, I'll be at law school in Williamsburg. If you're ever in the area. let me know.

Dear Classmates,

I'm afraid this is going to be rather, short and dull since I haven't heard from anyone since before Christmas, Please spare a minute from your spring cleaning and drop me a short note telling us how you are and what you've been doing. This is the best time; right after you finish reading your Alumnae Neur

The Association did forward two bits of news, however, On August 15, 1971, Susan E. Burho received an M.Ed. from U.Va. in Audio-Visuals. She had previously taught speech-drama for years in Roanoke, Soon after receiving her Master's, on Dec. 18, she married Thomas Speers and they are now living in Roanoke. Tom is an electrical engi neer at G.E. and Susan is now sub stitute teaching and learning to knit and sew. She is active in their alumnac chapter down there and says that they have more members than ever!

Jone Bradley also sent them news saying that she has just received a Master of Arts in government from George Washington University and is currently working only part-time, on a commu-nity organizing project for the Environmental Protection Service of HEW. It is in conjunction with the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science It sounds like very rewarding work, Jane.

The only contact I do have came about accidentally. I was in the grocery store as usual admiring the red bair of the woman in front of me and when she turned around I discovered it was Solls Stratton, an old Willardite. Sally left MWC after our junior year, to marry Gene Harrison in June of '67. She graduated from Old Dominion in Nor-folk in June of '68 and taught in Norfolk for two and a half years. Running into her was really a surprise since she lives about 5 minutes from us, in Lorton, and has a son 3 weeks younger than our Jonathan. Gene is now teaching P.E. here in Prince William County so Jonathan and Ward can look forward to many afternoons of getting into mischief This Christmas Sally ran into De Giroud who is now working for the Army at Fort Greeley, Alaska. She said that it is really a small frontier town, complete with saloons and swinging Sally also hears regularly from two other MWC'ers: Marilyn Wheeler and Susan Ballord. Marilyn became Mrs. Robert Hiatt last August and they now live in Oxon Hill, Maryland. Her husband works for the Library of Congress but, so far, Marilyn hasn't been able to find a job; a familiar predicament for many people, unfortunately. Last year she was working on her Master's degree at the University of Texas so she may go back to school.

Susan is now Mrs. Gene Triplett, Her husband is a student in Ellensburg, Washington, who plans to teach P.E. as well as work on a Master's degree. They have two children, Todd, born on Dec 31, 1968, and Emily, born in June of 1971

Here all is pretty quiet-when Jonathan is asleep, that is. It's amazing all the things a toddler can get into! I keen telling myself that that is how they learn, but it takes more patience than a roomful of eighth graders ever did! Volunteer work with Jaycee Wives also keeps me busy. A new chapter of the AAUW is being started here in Woodbridge so if anyone in the area is interested, let me know. So far I'm the lone representative of MWC. Please let me hear from all of youeven a postcard will be fine.

And my heartiest thanks to those of you who have sent or called in news! From Reno, Nevada, Kothy Lou Schneider Karbanics writes that she and husband Michael are both very much involved with education. "Michael has been finishing school and receives his BA in August. In September he begins his Master's in Economics and receive his Juris Doctorate from LaSalle in 3 years. I've been teaching on and off for 2 years, and plan to start on a Master's in Education this semester." A very busy schedule-and making it even busier is daughter Tara Katherine, born in October of 1970

1 sec Lawson Stillman Greenwood quite often and she always has exciting tales to tell, Husband Jerry is with the Secret Service and gets such assignments as protecting President Nixon on his visits to the Western White House and Key Biscayne! Lawson does not always get to tag along but son Jody keeps her too busy to get too lonely.

Linda Chornock Barrett sends news that she and Michael just may return from Panama sooner than expected Michael has applied to law school and if he is accepted for this coming September, they hope the Navy will award them an early release. If not, Linda certainly seems content enough to stay there as long as is necessary. With golf lessons, macrame class, Spanish and art classes, she has even found time to teach a course in conversational English to the Panamanians!

A call from Suzenna Bibb Johann this reek was certainly a welcome surprise. I hope I am not speaking prematurely, but it looks as though congratulations may be in order shortly for Suzy. It seems that she was en route to Blacks burg to defend her thesis. Success will bring her a Master's in Sociology. What next?! VPI would like to see her in a doctorate program at Brandeis Univer-sity, but Suzy still has some thinking to do about that. in her visits to the Tech. library,

Suzy often saw Pomelo Toppin Bradley.
I understand that Pam deserves congratulations too for her upcoming blessed event. That's just wonderful, Pam!

Lawson, Jeonne Monn Berkeley and made it to the Chancellor's Tes in March here in Richmond. It was won-derful seeing Chancellor and Mrs. Simpson, Ann Perinchief and frieads from other classes-but where were all of the 68'ers in this area?

of the 68'ers in this area?

Just cannot leave without doing a little bragging of my own about Catherine Gordon Rheutan. She was born to us Thanksgiving night and has been keeping us busy and giving to unlimited joy ever since!

Have a grand summer and do drop me a postcard with news-whether it be from an exotic vacation spot or from

Dear Friends, So much news this time-I don't know where to begin! Rhodo Fisher was married on Oct. 16, 1971 to Frederick G. Roberts, Jr. and the Roberts are now living in New York City. Congratulations Dodo! Roberto McCortney sends her regards to the Class of '68 from Saratoga, California Retty Scott Ponc's enistle was more welcome! Joe and Betty are proud to announce the arrival of their daughter Mary Beth on Jan. 29, 1972! The Popes are in Toledo where Joe is working on his doctorate in Health Education, Betty also sent some additional scoops: George and Sue Reed Culp live in Durham.

Conn. George is an assistant administrator at Stonegate School for the mentally retarded, and Sue is teaching first grade. Franny Scavullo has recently moved to a new apartment in New York. Pat McCauley became Mrs Domenick Volini on Sept. 4, 1971, and she and her husband are both working and going to school, Margaret Chastel Kurth and her husband had a baby girl-Amy Noell-in September. They now live in Dumfries, Va. Betty and Joe wil be living it up this summer in Newport, R.I. where Joe will be a Navy OCS instructor. Thanks again for your great letter Susan and Betty. Paul and Pam MocPhee Gibert have recently bought a home in Arlington, Va. Pam works for the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C. and Paul is now with the Veteran's Admin

Trent Costley Clark '69 and Chuck braved a huge snowstorm in Burke, Va but made it to the hospital in time-Trent produced Miss Stephanie Jeanne Clark on February 2! Chuck is working for a real estate firm in Burke. Borboro McLaughlin Carroll and Pat are expecting in June, and I hope I can share their blessed event in the next issuet Mary Jo Totum Larkin and Ernic and enjoying Germany even though it has to be with the Army! They're taking at vantage of their tour in Europe to traviaround-recently spent 9 days in Lordon and loved it. Pom Tompkins Vance heads for Euope in May. She will get her Master this spring and then off to the "con tinent" to bigger and better things

Steve and I recently visited Cap at Suzy Blonkenship Capone in Waltham. Mass. Cap is busy with the insurant business and will be taking several inportant exams this summer. Suzy ketpl busy just trying to keep up with two year old Kevin! During his slumbered moments, she is working on an heirless quilt, refinishing furniture, and studying a course on politics. She's also off-nizing the annual MWC night at the Boston Pops Concert for the Boster Alumnae Chapter. Suzy saw seven alumnae on a recent trip to Virgini Beach-Potti Dickson Hoover and Billy now have two children, so Suzy and Patti spent most of their visit keepit their toddlers apart! Bruce Cossell Elki '67 and Hill and their two children were on their way to Roanoke to list now that Hill's out of the service. Care Brinkley Brashear and Jerry are exper ing their second child next fall!

I'm so glad that Mother Natus cooperated with my deadline so that! can announce the birth of Jennifer Fos to John and Solly Monroe Fox. Jennifel. a dainty nine pounder, arrived on April 13 much to the excitement of her proud parents and her brother Christopher. Guess that's all the news-thanks all of you for your input. Steve and I have put away our skis and taken our tenns rackets out of mothballs . . . we're ready for summer! Steve has reentered the Hotel, Restaurant Management field and is presently the Director of Catering at the U. Muss Cumpus Center. We're enjoying work and school and are taking some just-for-fun night courses on the side this spring. Our best wishes to all of you for a GREAT sum-mer, and very special congratulations to all the new parents and parents-to-be!

The best part of this job is hearing from surprise people and it's really fun. Anne Withom Kilpatrick gave me some "clarifying" news when she wrote that her old roomie Jeonine Zovrel Fearns and Tom are now living here in Wilmington, as he is a sales representative with a pharmaceutical company. Then Anne confirmed that the girl I'd seen in Wanamaker dept, store was Lohn Jeanine! (I never expect to see any alumnue here!) She's a department manager and I hope that by publication I will have gotten in touch with you. Jeanine, or vice-versa! Anne had just returned from Hawaii and a glorious R&R with her husband Roger: Anne and daughter Rebecca are living in Va. Beach while awaiting Roger's return from Vietnam in June, They would love to return to Europe . . . if the U.S. Army will cooperate. Dore Cogswell MacKellar had been in touch with Anne. She is living in Portsmouth and hoping to begin work on her M.A. in English this fall. Cindy Paradise Johnson '68 wrote in search of lost beings; I hope I got her re-united with alumnae after two years. Cindy and her husband Corwin are living in Scaford and idolizing their new daughter, Erika Leigh. Corwin is in the Air Force at Langley, but may leave in the fall and they'll move back, to Wis-

Cindy related that Myro Terry Braasch is working for the Social Services Bureau in Newport News and Mory Pot Tull is teaching elementary school there, Barbaro Nichols Reams and Bernie have moved to Lynchburg where he works for his father One of my regular correspondents,

Katherine Coffee Gompf, and family have moved back to Portsmouth nov that Mike is out of the Army. Kat told me that Koy Bedran Snow and Carolyn Day O'Leary are to be mothers in Sept;

Carolyn for the second time. We've been trying in vain to get ogether with Henry and Lindo Eodie Matthews and Jim and Lyn Howell Gray, Lyn received her M.A. in Russian in May and they are awaiting acceptance to the Peace Corps. Lyn worked in the Office of International Programs at Georgetown U, this semester and really enjoyed meeting all the foreign students. She had seen Betty Jo Shoemoker Polk and her son Chris at CeCe Smith Riffer's apartment in Norfolk during Christmas: the Riffers have since moved to Ballston

Spa, N.Y. Lyn had also heard from Jean Polk who's still in Richmond, as is Beth Stewert Coleman who is still working for the Girl Scouts. At last writing, Lvn d Jim were to attend Bey Holt's April 15th wedding.

Since MWC and the "old gang" are on your mind right now, why don't you drop me a note with your news? Your friends would really love to hear what you're doing Until next time

Charlie and Shelly Gunderson Brown are living in Lenoir, N.C. where Shelly has "found her calling" in teaching French at nearby Renoir Rhyne College. Charlie is working on his Bus. Admin. major & may transfer to U.N.C. Charlotte in a year, (Come see me!!) She sent word that Mory Meyers Olszewski and Dennis are out of U. of Utah, where Dennis is taking courses in Geology. They just returned from a fantastic trip to Africa! Mary is still with Pan Am, and has run into another MWC grad, who is also a "stew"-Jonice Bryont. Frances Smith Armstrong wrote me a long letter about Germany and her misadventures with the language and culture. She is teaching over there, and Chris is finishing his Army tour in grand style . . . racking up honors. They love Europe, and have seen many old classmates over there . . . Cothy Allen Hughes, for example, who is in Baum holder while her hubby is stationed there. Koren Anne Jones and Kitty Culhane will be visiting Frances in August. And I understand that Ann Ruff Wolfrey and Kenny are parents again . . . How 'bout it, Ann? They were in Europe last year, too. 'Another surprise and fun letter came from Leslie Fenning Atkinson who was married almost two years ago, and finally told me about it!! Dick is in the Air Force at the Pentagon, but will be out and back in school in the fall. Meanwhile, Leslie has a fun job as a bilingual secretary for the French Engineering Bureau in D.C. Leslie sent news about Nancy Reiser Schlossburg who lives in New York City, Michael has a in bio-chemistry and works for the Cancer Research Institute. Nancy is a secretary in the garment district. are near Nancy, and spend a lot of time with them. Polly works for a D.C. Stockbroker, and Bob is with International Commerce at the Scandanavian desk. Brende Shonk Moore and husband Joe are also in D.C. Joe works in the Scnate P.O. on The Hill, and Brenda quit her job with Microbiology Labs. and is now a waitress! I understand that Berbero Prett '70 works for Congressman Shirley of Iowa and lives in D.C too. Also in the news is Solly Wright Simmons, who is living in Great Falls, Montana where Randy is in the Air Force. Donno Bredehl Jones '70 and husband Skip are at Quantico now, and are expecting their first baby.

B.J. Albright Fisher had a baby boy Jan. 25. She and Kenny should be in Calif at Ft Ord by now. A note from Mory Joy White brought

e news that she had worked for a while in C'ville with Mimi Hearne between her courses in architecture at the U., and trips around the country, Mimi is in grad, school in political science, Mary Joy is presently working for an architect in Lancaster, Pa., not too far from Dione Horst Wertz who is also a mother as of Jan 1. She and Bud have a

More haby news from Connecticut. where Susie Turner Johnson and Charlie have a boy. They will all be moving have a boy. They will all be moving again soon to New York. Their baby was born in March, just one day before Dino Lone Croxton '68 and Jimmy became parents of a little girl. They, too will be moving, only to another part of Richmond.

Well, that's about all the news for this issue!!! Kenny and I are doing well, I have quit my job, finally, after many threats, and am really enjoying being a lady of leisure for a change. I plan to get a good tan this summer, for the first time in I don't know when!

So let me hear from you again, soon, so let me hear from you again, soon, and send me any news you may have about some more "new" faces I can share. I do enjoy hearing about every-one, even though I myself am a very poor correspondent. If I don't always write hack, please don't stop writing to me!!! I'll try my hest to improve now that I have some "spare" time away from work, O.K?

I did get a nice newsy letter from Anne Sommervold LeDoux. She and John have moved again-from Albany, N.Y. to Binghamton, about three hours away. John finished his training with the F.B.I. last September and is enjoying his work in New York. They plan to move again in September, C'mon to Texas-you can't beat the weather here! Anne's sister, Judy Sommervold '72, spent spring break with Anne and John. Judy plans to go to Peabody University next fall for library science. Also heard from Morch McLoughlin

Schweitzer-she and her husband Nick are planning to visit Mexico this sum mer They will be accompanied by Nick's younger brother. Peter, and Lindo Chellein Blair. Linda has been living in California with her parents since the last May. Tom was severely wounded in battle and died a week later. This news came as a real shock to me, and I know all her friends join me in relaying to Linda our deepest sympathy at her tragic loss. March has been accepted to the
